Eye catching Cubik-Rubik sculpture unveiled at opening

By Ty Dilello

Altona's Gallery in the Park held a special grand opening for the 2022 season last Thursday.

There was a silent auction to raise money for children's art programs at gallery over the summer along with live music, drinks and appetizers, and people came to see the new work of Ontario-based artist Lorraine Roy and the local Buffalo Creek Artists group.

"We wanted to have a special night to honour the work of six artists whose work both individually and collectively encourages us to pay close attention to people, places, textures and the philosophies that give our life meaning," said curator Susie Fisher.

Roy's exhibit Woven Woods: A Journey Through The Forest Floor features a collection of 12 round fabric wall hangings that interpret the fascinating system of tree root communication facilitated by forest fungi and provides a new and exciting view of the underground world of trees.

Using her background in science and agriculture, Roy has been into tree research for several decades, and it shows in her work.

Local Buffalo Creek Artists who also had their work on display are Margaret Krahn, Steve Penner, Barb Wiebe, Bev Friesen and Ken Loewen, and people can view all of the pieces inside the Schwartz House on the second floor.

"Congrats to all of our artists," said Fisher. "It has been an honour to curate your work this season."

Finally, the big reveal on the evening was a new sculpture unveiled in the sculpture garden. Called Cubic-Rubik, it is a unique piece by artist Elena Bulatova, who is originally from Russia but now lives in the United States, where she has a gallery in both California and Las Vegas.

"Elena really likes to deal in bright colours. She has many different types of art, with some in galleries, but lots in front of businesses, malls, hotels etc," said Curwin Friesen of Friesens Corp, which sponsored the sculpture.

"Friesens is in the colour business, and this piece represents colour from just about every angle," said Friesen. "There are only two of these Cubic-Rubiks in existence, and one is now here. This is the first piece she's ever had in Canada, so she's very proud of having it here."

Coming to Gallery in the Park this summer is the first annual Blue House Market, which will be an artisan market in the gallery's parking lot during the Pembina Valley Studio Tour. There are also some music events being planned for later in the summer as well.

"A big thank you to all of our friends in the gallery because it doesn't happen without you," said Gallery in the Park board chair Frank Friesen. "And it's always been that way, always will be."

"We're almost on a one per year pace of unveiling sculptures, and I don't know how long we can keep that up. But a big thank you to Friesens Corp. for this one, as they have sponsored it. Without their initiative and the generosity of Friesens Corp, this gallery wouldn't be here."

Morden store still moving on up

By Lorne Stelmach

A grand reopening Saturday marked the next step in the continued success story of Morden Discount Centre.

Having started in February 2016, it is now approaching seven years in business, and it recently made the move to a new space on Seventh Street after having started in a small space on North Railway.

The change of location grew from the impact of the pandemic, said Annie Giesbrecht, who owns and operates the business with her husband Henry.

"We wanted to still be able to keep our prices at what we've been able to sell things for ... so we decided to do a little bit of a downsize so that we could keep our prices where are customers are used to having them at," she said.

They love their new location, which is still in the heart of downtown Morden.

"The community has been super supportive. People just come and drop by to say hi, and that part of it has just been fantastic," she said. "With the local emphasis on shopping local and the chamber talking about that, I feel like it's really hitting home for people ... it's just really heartwarming to see that people care," she said. They care enough to come by and support local. "Business has been exceptionally well," said Giesbrecht.

"There's some days where you go home, and you just realize that it doesn't always have to be the big sales that make business good," she said. "It's the community and the people that we meet. We just absolutely love what we do and we love meeting the people ... and we just love being part of the community and being downtown where people can find us easily."

You can find them online at morden-discount.com as well as on social media including Facebook.

Thrift Store gives back

By Lorne Stelmach

Twenty community organizations are benefitting from the work of the Morden Community Thrift Store.

They are sharing portions of $240,000 in grants handed out Monday afternoon.

"This donation goes a long ways towards supplying needed equipment," said Doug Frost, a council member and chairperson of the Menzies Medical Centre community board, which received $30,000 towards medical equipment. "I believe we have received in excess of half a million dollars from them now (in recent years)."

John Epp, a board member for the Morden Activity Centre, welcomed the support, which will use the $15,000 to help address a number of things including computer improvements as well as a walk-in cooler and plans for a patio.

"We think we do a lot of things for seniors. We routinely have all kinds of activities going on there, and we serve approximately 21,000 meals per year five days a week," said Epp.

"This is a place for seniors to come, meet with others, have pleasurable activities and in general just get out of the house."

Other grant recipients included the following:

- S.T.A.R.S Air Ambulance - $50,000.
- City of Morden - spray park recirculation system - $20,000.
- 500 Stephen Street - playroom equipment - $10,000.
- Habitat For Humanity - duplex in Morden -

- Morden Collegiate - five scholarships- $5,000.
- South Central Cancer Resource - wigs - 5,000.
- Ukrainian refugee association - assistance for families - $2,000.

"These people go on to support other people in the community," said thrift shop chairperson Linda Arndt. "We know it's less than we have in the past, but we're still pleased to give out what we did, and hopefully it all gets used for very good causes."

A taste of the rural life

By Lorne Stelmach

It may be only one week of working and living in rural Manitoba, but a program aimed at giving new medical students a taste of both continues to have a positive impact.

It provides an opportunity for medical students to get a first-hand experience and exposure to rural and northern medicine and life, and it is also an opportunity for participating communities to showcase themselves and to promote the benefits of living in rural and northern areas.

“What we’ve found for recruitment to our hospital is having medical students and residents come through our site has been the best recruitment tool for our area,” suggested Dr. Kevin Earl, who is the medical site lead for the Boundary Trails clinical teaching unit.

“A majority of physicians who have joined us in the last decade have rotated through our facility and our clinics in some fashion through exposure like this program,” he said, noting as well there is the Home for the Summer program which offers an extended experience for first year medical students, while third year students also do a rotation here.

“It’s been really successful for recruitment and retention of doctors and piquing students’ interests early in medical school for rural practice,” said Earl. “It was also a really great week to showcase what the Pembina Valley can offer them for life outside of medicine.”

The rural week initiative had Morden and Winkler hosting eight first year students from the University of Manitoba while other students panned out as well to other communities in the Southern Health-Santé Sud health region.

Earl has been involved with the residency teaching program and medical education now since 2011, so he has seen the benefit of the initiative.

The students basically participate in a day in the life of a rural doctor here, but he sees it as being equally important that the students enjoy a bit of the time in the community, whether it is enjoying a backyard barbecue, dining out or trying some zip lining in the valley.

“It gives them exposure not only to rural medicine but living and interacting in a rural community,” said Earl.

“They get to come out and spend a week following around a family doctor to see what rural life is like ... each of them is assigned a family doctor to follow for the week,” he explained.

“They were able to gain experience seeing patients with us in the clinic, in the hospital. They had some exposure to our operating rooms, exposure to our emergency department, exposure to obstetrics,” he continued.

“We also got them to meet some of our specialists at the hospital ... so rural medicine isn’t just for family doctors; as a regional site, we have more specialists and specialities that are working out of this facility now.”

Sydney McLaughlin came out for the week already sold on the idea of living and working in rural Manitoba.

“I’ve always had a real interest in rural medicine ... growing up in Neepawa, I kind of knew this was the way I wanted to go,” she said.

“It’s a beautiful facility here, so I was super happy to get matched up here ... it’s exciting,” said McLaughlin.

“I just can’t believe how many amenities are in this facility. It’s everything that’s great about rural life, but there’s also so many amenities in the hospital like having a CT scan, MRI, X-ray ... the amenities this provides for people of Southern Health is incredible.”

She also heard first hand how this region and facility have been a draw as “some of the residents here mentioned they’re from Winnipeg and they ended up here.”

Joadi Jacobs, who is originally from South Africa but has been in Winnipeg for about four years, also sounded like she was sold on the idea.

The rural week initiative had Morden and Winkler hosting eight first year students from the University of Manitoba.

“I really like living rurally. I’ve always thought that I would end up in a rural place; I wanted to see what it was like here, and it’s been amazing,” she said.

“My brother’s also worked here for a little bit, and he had amazing things to tell me, so I wanted to come see if they were true, and they absolutely are,” Jacobs added.

“Seeing what the doctors do everyday, even if they think it’s mundane, I loved it so much and being able to talk to the patients,” she said. “Literally, every single person I spoke to just made my day a little bit better.

“It’s a pretty big facility. I wouldn’t have really expected that,” she said. “The fact that they just do everything; even just how quickly something like an EKG was done.

“Most people I spent time with were just family doctors, but they did very different things, which was very cool for me to see,” she added.

Jacobs also believes the experience could sway a student’s ideas.

“I could see this changing a lot of minds,” she suggested.

Let me tell you how I really feel

Be Grateful. I understand the intent was well meaning but you know what? I don't need a random, impersonal highway sign to tell me to be grateful with its stark and imperious black font overlaid on a sterile white background.

You know the one I mean? Nestled along the side of the highway between Winkler and Morden is the command for passersby to "Be Grateful."

Every time I see the sign I feel less grateful.

It is the oddest thing in the world to me to be driving along and have a sign randomly involve itself in my life and tell me what to do.

Also, it's such a very detached way of trying to communicate how someone should order their personal lives. I mean, you have no idea what the average driver is going through when they read this.

House just burn down? Be grateful. Basement just flooded for the fifth time this year? Be grateful. Husband just die in conflict overseas? Be grateful.

Seriously?

How about a sign that says, "It's okay to feel sad sometimes" or "Get angry because some things are just stupid."

I would be all about these signs.

Communicating to random strangers with an expensive highway sign that they should be grateful is a little like those especially annoying posts you see from strangers on social media with a sickly sweet background of butterflies and flowers telling you it could be worse, or going to a funeral and telling someone to be glad they still have their other three kids.

Once again, I understand (hope) that the intent was good with the sign. Maybe the anonymous sign patron wanted people to look on the bright side of life, but it comes across a little like a skit in Monty Python's movie The Life of Brian—poorly.

The thing about gratitude is that it rises up. It bubbles to the surface when it needs to. But when someone else tells people to be grateful what is really going on is judgement.

Someone thinks that certain people around here are too whiny and complainy and so they are telling you and I to be grateful like some bitter, dried up, sour old uncle or aunt who is always pushing their nose into other people's business.

"Well, if you ask me they should be grateful they're still alive and breathing."

You can almost hear the tone dripping from the words.

Heck, maybe there are people who drive past and think, "You know what? I should be grateful." Maybe I am the bitter, dried up, sour old uncle just reacting here.

I've just never been fond of that person who leans into your suffering and whispers into your ear, "Hey, it could be worse, right?"

As I write this another Colorado Low has swamped our region and farmers are once again having to postpone planting, people are once again seeing their basements flood, trees are once again coming down and damaging property. I just read several articles on the grim state of Ukraine and Palestine—once again—and another mass shooting in the U.S. has taken the lives of 21 people including 19 little grade four children—once again.

So yeah. Be grateful.

Turnover keeps status quo for Altona health care

By Lorne Stelmach

Hopes for a return to 24 hour emergency care and boosting clinic services in Altona have been dashed for at least the time being with the coming departures of three physicians.

Two doctors have been recruited to fill the void, so it at least allows the health care facilities in the community to maintain the status quo, which includes 12 hour emergency service.

"At this time, we'll maintain a 12 hour emergency department, and we'll keep the hours at 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.," said Kevin Hamilton, site lead at the Altona Community Memorial Health Centre.

"We still are committed to reopening to a 24 hour emergency department. The provincial clinical preventive service plan does indicate that Altona should be a 24 hour emergency department ... so we are still working toward that goal.

"We were certainly hoping prior to the departure of these physicians that we would slowly resume that in a step-wise fashion, but with now one less physician, we don't want to put too much strain on these brand new physicians either."

The setback comes with the departures of Dr. Wasan Sulaiman as well as now Moheb Basta and Meriam Basta in the coming months.

Dr. Moheb Basta will provide intermittent care until July 31, while Dr. Meriam Basta will continue to provide care until August 31.

Southern Health Sante Sud emphasized in a news release that it remains committed to maintaining access to health services for the community and to resuming 24-hour emergency department services in Altona as soon as possible.

With that in mind, it was announced that two new physicians will join the team this fall.

On September 12, they will welcome Dr. Mehwish Rahman, who is relocating to Altona from Notre Dame, and they have also recruited Rabia Haq, who will also start between mid-August to early September.

In the meantime, officials offered assurances that they are working to minimize the disruption of current services while also looking to future with ongoing recruitment efforts.

"We are reaching out to gain some additional physician support," said Hamilton.

"We really wanted to do our best as a region and come together in keeping with our commitment to reopen a 24 hour emergency department in Altona."

Charges laid for stabbing at Patterson Pit

A Winkler man was taken to hospital in Winnipeg last Sunday after a stabbing at Patterson Pit.

Three people were arrested and are facing charges as a result of the May 29 incident at the gravel pit in the RM of Roland.

Pembina Valley RCMP say they were called to the site just before 10 p.m., and they learned an 18-year-old male from Winkler had been stabbed several times. He was taken to hospital with serious injuries and later transported to Winnipeg for further treatment.

The RCMP investigation found the victim was there with friends when an altercation took place with another group of people.

Three suspects were identified and arrested later that same night. As a result, two 17-year-old males from Winkler are facing a charge of assault with a weapon while an 18-year-old male from Reinfeld is facing a charge of aggravated assault. They were released from custody and are scheduled to appear in court in August in Morden.

Pembina Valley RCMP continue to investigate the incident further.

Driver dies in rollover

Voice staff

A Winkler man died in a single vehicle rollover last week.

RCMP say they were called June 2 shortly after 5:15 p.m. to the scene of a single-vehicle collision on Road 19 North in the RM of Roland.

The vehicle was on its roof in the spillway and submerged in water, and the local fire department was able to get the 20-year-old male from Winkler out of the vehicle, but he was pronounced deceased on scene.

Initial investigation has found the vehicle was travelling east on Road 19 North when it travelled on an angle into the ditch, where it struck a spillway drain and flipped.

The male was wearing his seatbelt and alcohol does not appear to be a factor in the collision, but the investigation is continuing.

COVID hospitalizations increase at end of May; backlogged medical procedures decrease

By Patricia Barrett

COVID-19 hospitalizations increased in late May, according to the province's weekly COVID surveillance data.

There were 120 new hospital admissions, of which nine required intensive care, and 15 more Manitobans died from the virus, according to the May 22 – May 28 report. There were also 416 new COVID infections, based on restricted PCR testing. The total number of Manitobans who've lost their lives to the virus is currently 1,980.

The province doesn't track rapid antigen tests.

The report also states that wastewater surveillance data for the city of Winnipeg indicated "ongoing activity" for COVID.

Other health news:

-Doctors Manitoba, a physician-advocacy organization, provided a new estimate on May 31 of the number of backlogged medical procedures in the province. There are now 166,903 procedures in the queue, a decrease of 2,295 from last month

-Canada's chief public health officer Theresa Tam reported 77 cases of monkeypox in the country as of last Friday, with five cases in Ontario, 71 in Quebec and one in Alberta.

DOCTORS MANITOBA

Doctors Manitoba's May 31 update shows a decrease since last month in the number of backlogged medical procedures. There are now almost 167,000 procedures in the queue.

May 31, 2022

Overall Backlog

The impact of the pandemic response on Manitoba's hospitals has resulted in a massive backlog of surgery and diagnostic procedures. Doctors Manitoba has been advocating on behalf of patients and their physicians for a plan to clear the backlog. As part of our work, we have created a dashboard to monitor the size of the backlog.

Meridian Agriculture Scholarship up for grabs

Staff

There's a new scholarship available for high school students in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

The Thanks for Farming Tour has teamed up with Meridian Manufacturing Inc. to offer two $1,000 awards for students in grades 11 and 12.

The Meridian Agriculture Scholarship is meant to connect students with their communities to understand and recognize the importance of agriculture and the role it plays, organizers say.

Prospective applicants are asked to submit a one-minute video answering the question: How is agriculture important in your community?

"Agriculture is a community in itself. The industry is constantly working together, but many people don't understand or see how important and involved agriculture is within communities," said Meridian's Sid Lockhart. "We're looking forward to hearing the views on this topic from our next generation."

eration."

The top finalists for the scholarship will present at the Thanks for Farming Tour events in their respective provinces in July.

"We are excited to be offering the Meridian Scholarships in conjunction with the Thanks for Farming Tour events this summer," said tour organizer Jeremy Matuszewski. "We cannot say enough about the next generation of farmers and we want to ensure they are supported in their journeys to be the next leaders in agriculture."

The deadline for applications is July 1 for Saskatchewan residents and July 15 for Manitoba residents.

Full application details are available online at thanksforfarmingtour.com/scholarship.

The Thanks for Farming Tour will be in Swift Current, SK July 12-13 and in Winkler, MB July 27-28.

Incident leads to weapons charges

Voice staff

A Winkler woman is facing weapons charges after an incident involving a young child last week in a local business.

Police were called to the business on Roblin Boulevard East around 12:30 p.m. May 30 in response to a report about a woman having pulled out a knife and waving it around inside the store.

They learned that another female shopper in the store had encountered the suspect holding the knife, at which time the suspect grabbed hold of one of the shopper's young children.

The mother grabbed the suspect's arm that was holding the knife and was able to get the knife away, and the suspect then fled from the store.

With the assistance of the Morden Police Service, the suspect was quickly located in Winkler and arrested.

The 31 year old Winkler resident has been charged with two counts of assault with a weapon as well as possession of a weapon for a dangerous purpose, and she was remanded into custody.

2022 Spring Flooding

Disaster Financial Assistance

What you need to know

Disaster Financial Assistance (DFA) is available to assist Manitobans and communities who experienced damages from 2022 spring flooding.

DFA is available to help with the cost of evacuation, the cost of preventing or limiting flood damage, and the cost of recovering from damages that were experienced. DFA is also available to assist with the cost of non-insurable damage to property such as principal residences and buildings essential to the operation of eligible farms and businesses. DFA is also available to assist with repairs to damaged municipal infrastructure.

The Manitoba Emergency Measures Organization (EMO) will be offering live webinars to answer your DFA questions. Check the DFA website for dates and times.

To find out more details about DFA eligibility or to obtain an application form, please contact the Emergency Measures Organization at:

Phone: 204-945-3050 in Winnipeg

Roland Pumpkin Fair planning event for October

By Becca Myskiw

The Roland Pumpkin Fair is back on for 2022.

After a short hiatus, the annual celebration of all things pumpkin has been confirmed for Saturday, Oct. 1.

The event will be complete with the famous pumpkin weigh off at the rink, children's entertainment, craft tables, beer gardens, food trucks, bouncy castles, the pumpkin patch tearoom, the harvest supper, and more.

Roland Pumpkin Fair board member Jodi-Laine Gaultier also said because the 30th anniversary would have been two years ago, they're planning something special to celebrate it this year.

"It's a great time," she said. "We're looking forward to it. We're really hoping to put on a good show for people this year. Everyone needs some celebration I think."

To make this year's fair the best one yet, though, the board needs more volunteers. They're without six committee members now after two years without an event, and Gaultier said the more people helping, the more things the fair can offer.

Volunteers would help prepare for the fair, planning everything ahead of time. That includes getting vendor permits, confirming with people coming to sell their goods at the craft market, setting up entertainment, ordering food, and more.

On the day of the fair, volunteers are needed to help with every individual event—running children's games, working facilities, loading pumpkins for the weigh off, maneuvering them onto the scale, taking them off the scale, and more.

Gaultier, for example, does most of her volunteering on the day of the fair. She does help with preparation and planning, of course, but she's busiest in the children's centre during the event. The night before she sets up and on the day, she helps with face painting, pumpkin painting, button painting, pumpkin-themed crafts, and generally watching the children.

Due to the lack of volunteers, the jam taste-off in the pumpkin patch tearoom has been cancelled for this year.

"If we can get some more volunteers, we can definitely plan more activities," said Gaultier.

She's also hoping that with restrictions being gone, pumpkin growers from the USA will be able to get back to compete in the weigh-off alongside the Manitoba entries.

To learn more about volunteering with Roland Pumpkin Fair, contact rolandpumpkinfair@hotmail.com.

ABBY board arrives

Salem Home personal care home in Winkler welcomed the installation of its third ABBY board recently, purchased through the funds raised by the Salem Ladies Auxiliary's Fasma in a Box fundraiser held earlier this year. The device provides a calming but interactive set of activities for residents to enjoy. This unit is being tested out as a mobile one so more residents can use it, says Salem CEO Sherry Janzen. She notes they're considering purchasing one more and have also included an ABBY board in the plans for each household section in the proposal for the 30-unit Behavioural Support and Care Environment the care home is hoping to build.

'Nacho' average fundraiser

By Ty Dilello

Genesis House in Winkler is holding what it has dubbed your "Nacho Average Man" fundraiser for Father's Day.

You can purchase a 'Nacho Average Man' gift basket with a minimum $20 donation, and all funds raised will support its men's intervention program.

Pre-order the gift baskets by contacting Kari Kauenhofen at 204-362-0082 or resource@genesis-house.ca, or you can visit them at The Potato Store in Winkler on Fri., June 17 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Sat., June 18 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Angela Braun, executive director of Genesis House, said the aim is to increase awareness as well as raise some funds.

"The program accepts self-referrals as well as referrals from other agencies," said Braun, who explained the program is providing one on one counselling services as well as group therapy, and they just wrapped up its first Caring Dads group - a 17-week intervention program.

"We recognize that fathers can and want to be a positive influence in the lives of their children, and when they are positively involved, fathers enhance their children's academic personal and social development," said Braun.

"Unfortunately, fathers can also have a negative impact on their children. This occurs when fathers do not understand the feelings and needs of their children, harshly discipline their children, argue frequently with their children's mothers, and use abusive and controlling behaviour."

The program will see those that identify as wanting to change their behaviour or those that may be victims of abuse.

There is no charge for the service, as the program has been funded by private donations as well as a grant through the provincial victim's fund.

For those who would like to reach out, please contact George Nickel at 431-775-1331 or email men@genesis-house.ca.

• A LOOK BACK

Triplets in Plum Coulee

On May 8, 1923, triplets were born to Elizabeth and Bernard Penner (nee Ginter). They were delivered at home with the help of a midwife.

These identical twin boys and a girl were born without publicity and fanfare. After swaddling each tiny baby, the midwife opened the door of the woodstove and placed them in bread pans on the door. The heat from the stove kept them warm in their drafty old farmhouse.

Elizabeth and Bernard were my husband Ron's maternal grandparents. His mother, Dorothy (Dora), was the girl and the two boys were his uncles: Edwin (Ed) and Jacob (Jake). They had four older siblings ranging in age from three years to eight. An unmarried aunt, Tina, still lived with her parents and moved in to help.

Elizabeth visited the doctor once and he made no mention of a possible multiple birth.

"But I knew," she said. "I could feel three small bumps."

Apparently, only one in about 8,100 natural births results in triplets. For these three to grow up healthy and strong without medical intervention was nothing short of miraculous!

Ron's grandparents were poor. They had recently moved back to Manitoba from Saskatchewan where they had owned some land and grew grain and raised cattle. Bernard began having mental health problems and was hospitalized in North Battleford for six months. They moved to be closer to family.

By Florence Dyck

Bernard's health deteriorated to the extent where one of his brothers brought him to the mental hospital in Selkirk. While there, Bernard escaped and began working as a labourer for farmers. He died when the triplets were two years old without ever having contact with the family.

Elizabeth wrote several letters to Selkirk pleading with the authorities to give her information about her husband. But all they could tell her was that he had escaped and they didn't know where he was. Meanwhile, their land in Saskatchewan was sold and Elizabeth struggled to support her growing family alone.

Elizabeth received a small allowance from the government. Her parents and her siblings helped with groceries. She had a cow and chickens for milk, cream, and eggs. Aunt Tina took the infant Dora home and raised her for two years.

The male twins, along with their four older siblings could be a handful. Elizabeth told of tying them to the kitchen table when she went to the barn to do chores. She could not safely take them with her, and she could not leave them with their older siblings. No twin strollers with child proof safety belts available to that generation.

When Dora rejoined the family two years later, her brothers could make her life miserable. They resented this newcomer and became skilful at tormenting her.

An uncle came into the barn one day to find Dora tied to a post. The boys thought this hilarious! Their uncle administered an old-fashioned spanking and told the boys if they ever did something like that again he would take their sister away forever. Fortunately, that did not happen, as the three of them learned to get along and even appreciate one another under their mother's gentle guidance.

After school, Ed and Jake both moved to B.C. to look for work. An older brother was already living and working there. Even after marrying, they remained close and visited regularly.

Dora married Isaac C. Dyck from Winkler and they raised their three children on a farm outside of Winkler. Dora was the best mother-in-law anyone could have. She was an amazing seamstress, cook, and homemaker. She taught me everything I know about baking and sewing.

She was the most patient grandparent ever. She spent hours playing Skippo with six boisterous grandsons and later their only granddaughter. When our oldest son got married, nothing would do but Grandma's homemade buns for his wedding fasp.

Dora had an artistic side to her but was too busy to pursue many hobbies. Her early married years were spent helping with the farm and her later years were spent working in her husband's real estate office. All three of her children, though, inherited her artistic abilities. Ron designed and built homes in three developments in Summerland and Penticton. Diana and Pauline are both artists. Pauline's paintings hang in many galleries on Vancouver Island.

Dora did develop an extreme interest in sports. She knew the statistics for all the hockey, football and baseball players. She watched everything from wrestling to boxing to equestrians to curling. She especially enjoyed the Olympics! Her husband teased her that her favourite chair was worn out from her exuberance during wrestling matches! Her daughters and I teased her that she even ironed sheets and underwear while absorbed in watching sports.

We lost our dear mother, Dora, from cancer too soon, in April 1995 at the age of 71. But she was happy to join her husband, Ike, who had died a month earlier.

Her twin brothers, Jacob and Ed, both died in their eighties.

Bergen visits constituency in May

By Becca Myskiw

MP for Portage-Lisgar, Candice Bergen, spent the last week of May touring local businesses and schools.

In a news release on May 30, Bergen's team said she visited J.A. Cuddy School in Sanford, Maple Leaf School in Morden, and various businesses in Brunkild and Carman.

"Despite the pandemic and recent flooding, Carman is continuing to grow," they said. "She visited Syl's Restaurant, which now includes a mini-putt course. Bergen visited the ESSO station in Brunkild, which is seeing an increase in traffic due to the closure of Highway 75."

At Maple Leaf School, Bergen spoke with Grade 4 students, telling them how she was once a student there and now her granddaughter is. At J.A. Cuddy School, she talked to the Grade 7 and 8 class about her role as an MP and as leader of the opposition.

Her team said students were well prepared for all questions, including the economy and firearms.

"It was wonderful to spend time touring the riding after a busy month in Ottawa," said Bergen. "Being in my constituency, although for a short time, and meeting with constituents is always the best part of my duties as a Member of Parliament. I look forward to seeing more constituents as we head into the summer."

Mordenites help with planting blitz

By Lorne Stelmach

Volunteer help lent a hand last week to help beautify Morden.

Members of the community as well as the Morden and District Horticultural Society pitched in to do planting in a number of locations throughout the downtown area.

They helped plant flowers at a number of locations last Wednesday including the main downtown intersection of Eighth and Stephen Street as well as Confederation Park and the Morden Civic Centre.

Heather Fehr, who is lead hand for Morden parks and urban forestry, welcomed the involvement of the community in this annual effort.

"I think it's important to involve community volunteers so then we can have that sense of community with this," said Fehr.

"It's great to make the connection between the city and the volunteers and especially the horticulture society to work together on future projects and plans," she added. "We're really excited to start making that connection a lot stronger."

Among the volunteers was Val Bissett, who sim-

Manitoba Road Trip Ideas

48 Hours in Winnipeg

This summer, Travel Manitoba is featuring an amazing collection of road trips to help you explore every corner of Manitoba. Explore Manitoba's largest city, where you can discover everything from luxury to joie de vivre. Winnipeg offers culture, history and relaxation—perfect for creating your ultimate.

1 PASSION & HISTOIRE

When you visit Winnipeg's St. Boniface neighbourhood, you'll find its Francophone history, architecture and culture line the streets. Cross the striking Esplanade Riel pedestrian bridge that links The Forks and downtown Winnipeg to St. Boniface.

Start at the information centre inside the former St. Boniface City Hall building on Provencher Boulevard. Here you can book a walking tour, get information or watch a documentary about the history and passion of Manitoba's Francophone community. Visit the La maison des artistes visuels francophones—the only French-run gallery in western Canada.

Next, check out le Musée de Saint Boniface Museum, the oldest building in Manitoba. Built more than 170 years ago, the building was originally a convent. Today, it is full of Francophone history and art, including a permanent exhibit on Louis Riel, the founder of Manitoba. A block away is the Saint Boniface Cathedral. The current church was built in 1971 after a fire burned the majority of the previous church. The old facade from 1894 still stands tall in front of the modern building, making for stunning photographs. Louis Riel's tombstone sits in the cemetery in front of the cathedral, where a plaque informs visitors about his life and legacy.

Another St. Boniface treasure is Fort Gibraltar. This replica of a 19th century North West Company fur trading fort features costumed interpreters who bring the fur trade period alive. You can also visit la Maison Gabrielle Roy, the original home of the renowned Franco-Manitoban author. Her hometown and the house itself are featured throughout much of her work.

2 A WALK IN THE PARK & A NIGHT WELL SPENT

A day spent at the Assiniboine Park Zoo is an absolute must. The Journey to Churchill exhibit features the Sea Ice Passage, an underwater viewing tunnel to watch swimming polar bears and playful seals. See Arctic fox, caribou and wolves, along with tigers, gibbons and other exotic animals. Check out Aunt Sally's Farm, where colourful bridges give safe passage to goats and kids can play next to the animals. Another playground option in Assiniboine Park is the wide open space in the Nature Playground or spend some time in the tranquil Leo Mol Sculpture Garden.

Winnipeg boasts a variety of hotel options to suit any need, from trendy boutique hotels in the heart of downtown, to family-friendly hotels with pools and water slides close to your favourite attractions. Many hotels offer special packages, so now is a great time to stay overnight in Winnipeg. (Find unique accommodations at travelmanitoba.com/stay.)

3 THE ART OF RELAXATION

The Winnipeg Art Gallery's iconic downtown building features a modernist design and more than 27,000 works of art. Browse the galleries where local Manitoban and Canadian artists are at the forefront, along with international works representing various cultures, centuries and mediums. The WAG is also home to one of the most sought-out gift shops in the city.

Be sure to spend some time at Qaumajuq, the Winnipeg Art Gallery's stunning Inuit art museum. The architecture was inspired by Canada's northern landscape and it is home to more than 14,000 pieces of Inuit art, many of which are on display in the visible vault. The first of its kind in the world, Qaumajuq offers a space where Inuit voices are front and centre. This accessible gallery combines art and technology to create direct connections to the land, people and culture of the north.

Experience deep relaxation at Thermëa by Nordik Spa-Nature—an outdoor oasis set in a quiet nook of the city. The signature thermal experience is the ultimate way to relax. It follows a hot-cold-rest cycle. The spa can be enjoyed in any season and is a different experience depending on when you go. Steam rises over the dreamy temperate and hot pools, while the cold plunge beckons the brave. Enjoy a variety of saunas and steam rooms. During the rest period, lay down on a slab of hot rock or lean back on a heated seat and be soothed into a slumber with the aid of relaxing music overhead. Fire pits are located throughout the facility for s'mores roasting and a tasty restaurant onsite where you can eat in your bathrobe! Feel the sand between your toes on the new forest beach where you can lounge in a cushioned chair or hammock.

Busy seasons ahead for camps

By Lorne Stelmach

After two seasons of facing pandemic restrictions, the region's two main camps are gearing up for busy summers.

It is a welcome challenge for both the Pembina Valley Bible Camp and Winkler Bible Camp to get up to speed again with their programs and staffing.

"You've almost got to start going back to the drawing board," said Chris Harms, executive director of the Pembina Valley Bible Camp. "Some of the things that were easy to do just repetitiously for all these years, we've now got to kind of recall and see if there's ways we want to tweak it or modify it since we're doing it all again for the first time for a lot of the kids."

"We're looking forward to it, and there's been a very positive response from the community, so it's fantastic to know that people want to get back out here," said Dale Wiebe, executive director of the Winkler Bible Camp.

"But with the mix of programming - day camps and overnight - how do you make it work for all the kids so that everybody gets a full program as much as we can ... so there are programming challenges."

Harms felt the transition was going as well as possible at Pembina Valley Bible Camp.

"We've run two summers of day camps and modified ways of doing things," he said. "So this year, we will be able to run overnights again and run most of our regular programs ... we can do canoe trips and stuff like that again, so we're really excited about it."

The challenge comes with being prepared with the staffing and the volunteers.

"Even for us, after not running some of the programs for a couple years, because camp relies on so many young staff, we have a lot of staff come through and they usually stick around for a couple or a few years," he noted. "So we have a lot of staff who haven't actually run some of our programs because they've only been here for the last couple of years."

"We're really focussing on the how and the why of what we do with some of the programs then," said Harms, who noted it all starts in the spring season in May and June when they move on site and help staff get ready for the summer.

"They're kind of our leadership team then for once we hit the summer season," he said. "Then we'll have a week to get geared up for the season, and the following weeks we run a discipleship program, a two week program, where we train our future staff."

"It's always just an incredible time of them all getting to know each other and then again also laying out the how and why of what we do," Harms continued.

They then close out July with a week of family camps.

"It's something we started last year. It was new to us ... and we had a really positive response, so we're going to try that again," he said. "It's just an opportunity for families to come and experience what their kids experience, but they get to do it together as a family."

"Then we jump into August, and every week is loaded," said Harms, who noted the first week is for ages 10 to 12 before the remainder of the month is open to the entire range of speciality camps that cover an array of themes from bikes and sports to wilderness and horse riding.

The Pembina Valley Bible Camp offers specific targetting programs such as biking while Winkler Bible Camp offers programs featuring a range of activities.

"We don't have a lot of weeks where everybody does the same thing. We are a speciality camp, so people come for a very specific activity," he explained. "It's neat; it allows us to push a little harder and go a little more intense on those programs because the people who sign up usually have a passion for it."

Harms estimated they will end up with around 250 campers and perhaps 50 staff overall, and he noted they will be drawing kids from a wider region again as they would not have been coming from a further distance for day camps.

"I would imagine we will exceed a typical year now that we're going back to overnights again," he suggested. "The numbers have bounced back and bounced back quicker in the sense that we opened camp registration later this year ... but by early March, we were already filling up some of our programs."

Wiebe also sees the Winkler Bible Camp numbers as really bouncing back strongly this year.

"We had a partial season last year. We were just under 50 per cent capacity in 2021. It was strictly day camp, and it worked really, really well. It was something new for us, but it worked great," he noted.

"This year, however, we've doubled it, so we're almost up to 2,000 campers, and we're over 90 per cent full already, and we will be running a day camp along with an overnight camp," he continued. "So it will be new again with a number of programming challenges with people, traffic, timing, programs, but we are very confident it's going to work well."

A newer feature he highlighted is the day camps geared to older youth, but their camps otherwise will cover all activities and levels.

"We make sure that all of our activities are done at a level that everybody can engage it," he said, noting he welcomes having a place like the Pembina Valley Bible Camp to offer the focussed camps. "I'm glad there's different avenues for children ... in our world, everybody gets an opportunity at whatever we do with every activity ... that's worked well for us."

Wiebe also noted youth will be able to see and enjoy some of their new features and improvements to the facility.

"We took advantage of the COVID break ... it wasn't a good thing, and we had to refund camper fees in 2020," he said. "But we took advantage of that time without campers on site, and we made some significant changes to our ropes and our obstacle courses."

"We felt that was a real blessing because we normally don't have the time to do that ... it's a lot of work, and you always have people on site."

Timberline Farms celebrating Turkey Lovers Month

June is Turkey Month, support local farms

By Autumn Fehr

Turkeys are more like people than many would think.

When you open the door of a turkey barn, at any time of day, you are met with thousands of turkey heads popping up to look at you.

Then the turkeys usually come running towards you, from the far end of the barn, greeting and welcoming you into their space – excited to see you.

And if you make any noise, they will respond like they are answering back.

Quentin Wiebe, owner of Timberline Farms Inc. looks forward to that greeting every day as part of his work as a turkey farmer.

“When you walk into a barn, it’s like you have 7, 8, 10 thousand friends happy to see you,” said Wiebe.

For 27 years, Wiebe and his wife Theresa Wiebe, have been looking after the turkeys on their farm in Gunton.

“My wife is an integral part of the farming process. It’s very much a team effort,” he said.

Wiebe starts his typical day at seven in the morning with his daily tasks to upkeep the farm, starting with a walk-through of all the barns.

“You wake up in the morning, and immediately your mind goes to the birds and what’s happening in the barn,” said Wiebe.

As a turkey farmer, checking on your birds is an integral part of your day and is done multiple times a day to ensure all is well with the turkeys.

“I think most farmers would feel this way; when the birds are doing well, then life is good,” Wiebe.

Checking on the birds is both the first and the last thing done in a turkey farmer’s daily routine.

“That’s always the first thing to make sure all is well in the barn,” said Wiebe.

Other daily duties include giving the birds food and water and ensuring all equipment is working.

Depending on the bird’s age, they may require some extra attention. When the birds are young, some more manual labour is involved, like filling the feeders by hand.

“You have to babysit the young ones,” said Wiebe.

Wiebe says they are always getting ready for the next flock of turkeys.

Timberline Farms could have up to four different flocks at a time.

The farm raises four different flocks at a time, raising seven flocks a year.

Timberline Farms ships their turkeys through Exceldor Cooperative, located in Blumenort, formerly known as Granny’s Poultry, which is the only turkey processor in Manitoba.

“Excledor’s process is all very highly controlled and very closely monitored,” said Wiebe.

Timberline Farms Inc. turkeys that the farm prepares are Butterball turkeys; turkeys raised without antibiotics that are fed a mixed, natural grain diet of soybeans, grains, and other vitamins and minerals.

Once they ship a flock of turkeys, the work of hauling out the manure and cleaning and disinfecting the barn happens in preparation for their next incoming flock.

Wiebe says they receive the first flock around mid to end of February and the last flock of the year between mid to end of November. The flocks vary in size. The smallest they receive is 7,000 birds, and the largest is 10,000 birds.

This means that from December to January, and most of February, the barns are empty, but Wiebe says during this time there is a lot of maintenance, cleaning, upgrades of equipment and disinfecting equipment that needs to be done.

“Life is a little bit easier. There’s still a lot of work, but it’s just not so pressing,” said Wiebe.

The farm’s busiest season is spring and fall, between shipping and receiving birds. During the summer, the farm is steady with added yard work to get done on the land.

Although his work is busy and at times pressing, Wiebe loves the lifestyle, especially the ease of having his work in his own backyard, and the flexibility of being his boss.

“It’s very rewarding when all the birds are doing well and happy. It can be a lot of fun,” said Wiebe.

Not only does turkey taste good, but it reaps many health benefits.

Turkey is the leanest meat – whether it’s white meat or dark meat. It is packed with high-quality protein, that energizes your body with a boost

A hub for Altona

The Community Exchange a way to bring the community together

By Ty Dilello

Altona residents will have a new resource hub they will be able to turn to this fall.

The Community Exchange envisions a safe, neutral community-owned space that brings a range of services and resources together to serve everyone.

"It's been over three years since this idea was formed. The pandemic has played a significant factor in delaying the launch of The Community Exchange, but we're ready to roll up our sleeves and get going," said Cal Funk, board chair of the 10-person steering committee.

"We hope that the community at large will capture the vision we see for this new initiative and join us in finding new and innovative ways to bring our community together."

The Community Exchange will serve as a hub to make a positive difference in everyday lives and to promote health and well-being by connecting people to a network of supports and services essential for actively learning, working and living in the community of Altona and the surrounding area.

In 2019, a small local church started a conversation about the next 20 years of its existence, having just turned 20 years old and reflecting on where they'd come from and where they are going.

Seeds Church recognized the answer to that question was much bigger than their congregation, so this led to a conversation with the broader community including town council, police, school division, Southern Health Sante Sud and others.

In September 2021, a community-based steering group was created consisting of 10 people representing a diverse range of people, and it has incorporated as a non-profit company under the name The Community Exchange in Altona Inc. (TCE), and it is in the process of attaining charitable status.

"The church had to make better use of its facility," said Funk. "We needed to optimize the use of our facility by reducing barriers in our local community."

"Furthermore, this new initiative had to be owned by the community," he added. "The vision and mission of this new entity had to be created by the broader community and would be an open and affirming place."

The three areas of focus for the new resource hub are providing space for food gatherings, serving as a resource hub and learning from and with each other.

The food gatherings are envisioned as "pop up food markets representing the cultural diversity in our community, and meals where there's an opportunity for all of us to sit across the table from each other. People can come by for a cup of coffee and muffin and can just sit and talk about life with other community members."

The resource hub is meant to help connect people to a network of supports and services essential for active learning. It will also be a community center where people can share their talents with access to services like a computer, photocopier and desk space.

"It's a place where people can share their stories," added Funk.

"At one of our recent steering group meetings, we invited a local community member to share her story. It turned out to be a powerful time together where we listened and began to understand the perspective of someone with a lived experience that is different from ours," he concluded.

"THE VISION AND MISSION OF THIS NEW ENTITY HAD TO BE CREATED BY THE BROADER COMMUNITY AND WOULD BE AN OPEN AND AFFIRMING PLACE."

near Meat.

The draw will be held June 16 in conjunction with a fundraising hot dog lunch that day from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the mall.

"We need the community support, and the community has helped us so much already ... the local businesses and community organizations and our patrons. They've all been very supportive," said representative Wendy Friesen.

"We're reaching our goal, but we still do need support. We have raised $300,000 so far, but we're still a ways from meeting our goal," said Friesen, who sees the project as being important to the community.

"We are planning to move into the mall for sometime this summer, for sure by fall," she said.

"It is important to the community," she said. "We serve the community, and we want to continue to be there for the community, for our kids and for all ages."

A thank you for Altona staff

Memento honours efforts during storms and flooding

By Ty Dilello

During the recent string of storms and resulting high water events, the Town of Altona public works department put in long hours to keep residents safe.

As a small thank you, the town approached Barry Friesen of Laser Forge recently to design ornaments and a larger piece of wall decor to acknowledge those efforts.

The ornaments are three layers and about four inches in diameter, and they have a small stand so they can be displayed on a shelf or can be removed and be hung instead.

The larger piece is 16 inches in diameter and has five layers, and it has the names of all the public works employees engraved on it with the new Altona sunflower logo inset in a different colour of wood.

"The Town of Altona reached out to me to see if I could design and create some ornaments for each public works employee as well as a larger item to go on the wall at the public works shop," said Barry Friesen of Laser Forge.

"The town gave me ideas of what they would like, so I made a few full-size mock-ups and brought them to the town, and we went from there.

"The public works department put in a lot of hours keeping the town safe and as dry as possible, and the Town of Altona wanted to recognize them for their efforts," said Friesen. "I think they turned out well."

Laser Forge is a local hobby business run by Friesen that does custom laser engraving and cutting including personalized gifts, home decor, game boards, signs, art and much more.

"I can design and make personalized items from ornaments, cutting boards and engraving pictures onto anything except metal," said Friesen, who encouraged anyone interested to find them on social media.

"THE TOWN GAVE ME IDEAS OF WHAT THEY WOULD LIKE."

of iron, strengthens your immune system with zinc, and provides potassium which is healthy for the heart.

These are only some of the many benefits of eating turkey in your diet.

When using turkey as part of a meal, there are many options of how to use it, whether you bake the whole bird, use parts of it in a soup or sandwich, barbeque or smoke it.

“I think a lot of people when they think turkey, they think we have to make this whole bird. A lot of people don’t even know what to do with those leftovers. There are so many options – sandwiches, soup, curry turkey,” said Wiebe.

Like any poultry, it is important to cook turkey to the right temperate. Whole turkey and roasts are cooked when a meat thermometer reads 170°F (77°C) for unstuffed turkey, or 180°F (82°C) for turkey stuffed with a dressing. Turkey cuts such as breasts, thighs, drumsticks and wings are cooked when it registers 165°F (74°C). Always insert your thermometer into the thickest part of the meat, away you cook a turkey, whether using the whole bird or the leftovers after a big dinner with friends and family.

After 27 years of running a turkey farm, it becomes a lifestyle and a routine way to make a living.

Wiebe says that since he has been taking care of turkeys for so many years, when he is walking through the barn, he can tell just by the way they sound and even by the way they stand, if there is a potential problem, if they are happy or not and if they are comfortable.

“Bottom line, it’s a fun way to make a living,” said Wiebe.

This month, support turkey farmers like Wiebe by enjoying some turkey. Some great options are a whole turkey, turkey roast, turkey cuts, like a breast, thigh, or a couple of drumsticks, ground turkey, or something quick and easy like frozen turkey burgers, sausages, ham or franks.

Charity Classic set to go

By Lorne Stelmach

Organizers of the Decor Charity Classic are aiming to bounce back big time this year now that the annual fundraising golf tournament is expected to be facing no restrictions.

The event will once again feature a banquet along with the tournament itself after having had to do just a virtual event two years ago and only a tournament last year.

"It's really good to be able to get back into it and get back to what we have been doing," said tournament co-chair Dave Schellenberg.

"We've got lots of sponsors and golfers who have come out in the past registering again, so it's going well so far," he said. "Hopefully, we'll get a full course again and try to beat our record or get close to a record for funds raised."

The Decor Charity Classic has now raised over $1.34 million since its inception in 2004.

Every year, tournament proceeds go to three local charities - Youth for Christ, Pembina Counselling Centre and Pembina Valley Pregnancy Care Centre.

As well, it is returning this year to having a fourth guest charity with the addition of the Mully Children's Family. The foundation is a registered Canadian charity committed to supporting the rescue and rehabilitation programs of Mully Children's Family in Kenya, Africa.

The organization enables the rescue of Africa's most vulnerable children including abandoned babies, orphans of HIV/AIDS, boys forced into child labour, young teenaged mothers and little girls forced into the sex trade. Currently, it has around 5,000 children in its family and 23,000 have gone through the program since 1989, and it has plans for a medical mission trip in July 2022.

Lined up to be a guest speaker is cycling philanthropist Arvid Loewen, who's ultra-marathon cycling endeavours have supported the Mully Children's Family.

Among the recent accomplishments was setting a world record for the farthest distance biked in a month with his 2021 journey having beaten the previous record of 11,315.29 km. The goal of his GrandpasCan 2022 cycling platform is to raise $250,000 and help Charles and Esther Mulli provide 500,000 meals for children from their community schools.

Schellenberg said they are optimistic that the event be a big success.

In addition to the round of golf, there are usually a number of fun extra challenges along the way.

"It's too bad of course that there isn't a clubhouse at Minnewasta, but I've seen they put up a tent there, and they've been working on cleaning up ... so we're looking forward to being able to get everybody together after the tournament again."

The tournament takes place August 11 at Minnewasta Golf & Country Club with a tee time of 11 a.m. The entry fee of $175 includes the green fee, power cart and a $75 donation receipt, and you can register and find more information online at decorcharityclassic.com.

The Carman Golf and Curling Club (CGCC) is located in Carman, Manitoba. The club was originally established on May 12, 1924 as a five hole club. In the spring of 1930 land was purchased and nine holes were opened on the "old side". On August 28, 1953 the first tournament was held. The course began production on the "new 11 holes" in 1982 and opened the 18 Hole Golf Course in the spring of 1984. On August 17, 1990 the new clubhouse officially opened and is enjoyed today! Carman Golf and Curling Club is known as a select destination for golf in the summer and curling in the winter months. Formerly two clubs, the CGCC amalgamated its executive and combined all operations to be a year round facility managed by a general manager and offering something for everyone. CGCC features a beautiful restaurant with an attached patio, a 200 capacity banquet facility, a five sheet curling arena, and an 18 hole golf course. Both the golf course and curling club have been recognized as top-notch clubs hosting many prestigious provincial and local events.

Our 18 Hole Golf Course has been designed to appeal to golfers of all abilities, combining relatively gentle holes with more demanding challenges. Whether you are a member, or visiting the course for the day, you will find a warm and friendly welcome at our Club.

Your pharmacist can help you quit

• BEHIND THE COUNTER

By Zahid Zehri

In Canada, tobacco remains the leading cause of preventable disease and premature death.

World No Tobacco Day was observed around the world May 31, and it was an opportunity to raise awareness about the harmful impacts of tobacco use.

Nicotine is a chemical found in all tobacco products including cigarettes, and it makes smoking highly addictive and hard to quit.

Because of the addictive nature of tobacco, only five per cent of people successfully quit smoking without the support of smoking cessation medications or the help from a counsellor. So don't feel discouraged if quitting cold turkey isn't working for you. You are not alone in this, and there are support systems available to you if you'd like to quit.

There are many options for quitting smoking including seeking guidance from health care providers, smoking cessation clinics, medications and following self-help guides.

Research shows the combination of several methods has a higher chance of success than using one alone, but the most important thing to do is to find the approach that works for you.

Quitting tobacco is hard, but with help, you can increase your chances of success.

Health care professionals including pharmacists can help assess your needs, come up with an individualized plan to help you quit and address any concerns you have about quitting.

As your local pharmacist, I'm here to support you as you reclaim your health. I've put together some tips and resources to help you quit smoking:

- Conquer the cravings – don't get discouraged if you're experiencing cravings. It's normal, especially if you used tobacco regularly. There are many things you can do to manage cravings. Identifying and avoiding triggers, chewing sugarless gum and distracting yourself with physical activity are great starting points.

- Take a breath and destress – stress management is a common reason many people use tobacco. Smoking cigarettes can temporarily decrease anxiety and help you feel calmer.

As you quit, prioritize developing other stress management strategies to avoid turning back to tobacco. Consider adding relaxation techniques like yoga, deep breathing exercises or meditation to your stress toolkit.

- Ask your pharmacist – simply talking to a health care professional about quitting has been shown to increase a smoker's motivation to quit.

Your pharmacist is an accessible and qualified health care professional who can listen and provide information about smoking cessation and help you develop an individualized plan to quit. Your pharmacist can also recommend products to help you quit that may be available without a prescription.

In Manitoba, pharmacists can prescribe smoking/tobacco cessation medications to help you quit. As with all medications, it is important to find the right one for you based on your needs and health condition.

Speak with your pharmacist to learn more about the importance of quitting smoking and the supports and services available to you.

Zahid Zehri is a pharmacist and owner of Shoppers Drug Mart in Winkler.

Northern Leopard Frogs

By John Gavloski

In the last Incredible Creatures we looked at a species of frog that overwintered on the forest floor, can freeze and still survive, and becomes active earlier than many other frogs. That was the wood frog. This month we will explore another common and quite interesting species of frog, the northern leopard frog.

Leopard-like looks

The northern leopard frog, Lithobates pipiens, is green or brown, or a mixture of the two. It gets its name from the dark spots surrounded by light borders on its back and sides, which resemble leopard spots. They have a light-coloured ridge on each side of its back, from behind the eyes to the lower back. The underside is whitish. Males get to about 8 cm, and females to about 10 cm, from their snout to the back of their body (not including the legs).

Aside from the northern leopard frog, there are a few other species of leopard frogs in North America, such as the southern leopard frog and the Atlantic Coast leopard frog. But the northern leopard frog is the only species of leopard frog found in Manitoba.

Where to find a Leopard frog

Northern leopard frogs live in three types of habitats, depending on the season. They use shallow marshes for breeding, moist uplands for summer foraging, and permanent water bodies for wintering. Since there is a limited ability to disperse for this species, having these habitats close to each other is beneficial.

From the more permanent water bodies where they spend the winter, adult frogs travel up to 1.6 km (1 mile) to breed, from April to June. These breeding areas include the shallow, warm waters of a variety of wetlands including marshes, springs, flooded ditches, dugouts, beaver ponds, the margins of lakes, and slow-moving waters of streams and rivers. Ideal wetlands for breeding are less likely to contain predatory fish. Emerging vegetation is important for protective cover, and is used to attach egg masses to.

After breeding they may disperse up to 8 km from breeding areas to forage in the summer in areas either next to or away from wetlands. These areas can include meadows, pastures, and drainage or irrigation ditches. Northern leopard frogs usually do not use areas that are heavily wooded, although there can be exceptions. They also avoid areas of very sparse vegetation such as heavily grazed pastures or cultivated fields. The return to overwintering sites begins in late summer or early fall.

They hibernate at the bottom of lakes, and perhaps deep ponds, rivers and creeks as well. There have been reports by ice fishermen on Lake Manitoba finding leopard frogs in nets as far as 18 km from the shore and in water as deep as 7 meters, always in areas where the bottom was silty. There are reports of frogs taken in nets in Lake Winnipeg as well.

Breeding Call is a real Snore

The breeding call of males sounds like a drawn-out snore or croak, lasting 2 to 3 seconds, followed by a series of 2 to 3 rapid grunts at the end.

It is generally late April to mid-May when you would hear the calling males in southern Manitoba. This year the calling period could extend a bit later because of our cool start to the spring. Evening, from dusk to full darkness, is the best time to hear them, but they will call during the day as well.

Keep your eyes and ears open for these leaping leopards. If you don't see one, you just might hear one.

Baseball hall honours the best

Voice staff

A gala evening this past weekend honoured some of the province's baseball history as well as the man who has kept the legacy alive.

The Manitoba Baseball Hall of Fame Museum held its induction ceremony Saturday in Morden, and a special honour was bestowed on a Mordenite who has played a key role.

Receiving the special award was Joe Wiwchar, who since the museum officially opened here with the 1999 banquet in Morden has been the administrator.

There was perhaps no one more suited to the role, as he also coached baseball continuously from 1953 to the present day.

Now on the cusp of retiring from his illustrious career as a builder of the sport of baseball, he has covered all the bases in serving as a player, coach, umpire, executive administrator and mentor at the local, provincial, national and international levels.

Meanwhile, the museum annually selects outstanding Manitoba athletes, coaches, officials, builders and teams for induction, and it also gathers memories of the past and present associated with the history of baseball in Manitoba.

Delayed because of the pandemic, the latest class of inductees included a number of outstanding players, builders and teams who have left their legacy both on and off the baseball field.

The individuals inducted included the following Ron Arnst, Les Charles, Blaine Fortin, Andrew Halpenny, John Kroeker, Morris Mott and Kalam Paull.

Arnst grew up playing minor ball in Saskatchewan and as an adult he continued his love for baseball by becoming a well known and respected radio play-by-play and in-house game announcer.

As one of the better players in the Souris minor baseball program, Charles was expected to be a leader and his skill along with an unselfish attitude earned him respect at a young age. He went on to an outstanding career in the Manitoba Senior Baseball League.

By the time Fortin completed his 16-year old season in 1994, he had already compiled a resume worthy of Hall of Fame admission. That year alone he played at the midget, junior and senior level and played on the provincial youth team.

Halpenny started his minor ball career in his hometown Selkirk, but soon advanced to represent Manitoba at the national and international level. Manitoba's own field of dreams exists today in Stonewall thanks mainly to the efforts of John Kroeker.

Mott grew up playing both baseball and hockey in rural Saskatchewan. Although now better known for his hockey career, he was good enough on the diamond to be inducted as a player into the Saskatchewan Baseball Hall of Fame in 2002.

Joe Wiwchar of Morden was honoured this past weekend for his 20 plus years of service to the Manitoba Baseball Hall of Fame and Museum in Morden. Morgan De Pena presented an award to Wiwchar, who was then also joined by Tyler Wiwchar, Arlene Wiwchar, Cater Wiwchar and Torin Wiwchar.

Paull has an outstanding baseball resume, longer than his pitching arm. Starting in 1989, he was a member of the Manitoba youth team and helped pitch the Elmwood Giants to a provincial midget title.

Inducted as well in the team categories were the Carman Goldeyes midgets of 1994-95 and juniors of 1997-2000, Elmwood Giants juniors of 2002-2007, Cardale Cougars bantams and midgets of 1971-75 and the Portage Athletics midgets of 1991 in the special team category.

An honorary life member honour was bestowed on Jack Callum. The first honorary life member selected by the Manitoba Baseball Hall of Fame, Callum is an individual who has shown outstanding dedication and service to the organization.

Prairie Fire Racing off to a hot start

By Ty Dilello

Prairie Fire Racing is Country Cycle's sponsored race team based out of Winkler, and it is getting some attention on the racing circuit.

It's 2022 members include Peter Loewen, John Paul Peters, Mia Sawatzky, Logan Wiebe, Jamie Falk, Russell Thiessen and Sasa Ivetic.

"Prairie Fire Racing is meant for those who have a passion for both cycling and competing in the sport," said team leader Peter Loewen.

"Members who understand the human mind and body are capable of so much more than what is ever expected of it. Members who have the mental fortitude to overcome the adversity that comes with competition. And members who feed off the reward potential that comes with overcoming adversity."

Prairie Fire members all follow training programs provided to them by personal coaches.

Team members will compete in 20-30 races a season, which includes races held both in Manitoba and races held out of province including the United States.

The cycling disciplines they compete in include mountain biking, gravel and road events, fat biking and cyclocross, and these race events can go anywhere from an hour to 24 hours.

Sasa Ivetic, who is the newest member of the Prairie Fire team, officially joined two months ago but started riding about three years ago. He had done a couple years of running but kept getting sidelined and frustrated with ongoing injuries, so he decided to pick up a road bike on a whim and loved it.

"Peter approached me towards the end of the winter, and I did not hesitate to accept the invite," said Ivetic. "I appreciate Peter's commitment and love for the sport of cycling and what he continues to do for the community, so joining was a no-brainer."

Ivetic was born in Bosnia Herzegovina and moved to Winnipeg in the fall of 1996 when he was 14.

"It was quite the year to move here with the infamous winter, the April blizzard and the Flood of the Century that followed!"

"We made the decision to leave and applied to come to Canada while the war was still raging and got our papers and flights a few months after it ended. It was definitely difficult to live through, though I was too young back then to understand much of the politics and business behind the War," said Ivetic.

"We were fortunate, if you can call anything related to war as fortunate, in that the situation in the city I lived in stabilized quickly after an initial assault," he continued.

"We were primarily spared the indiscriminate shelling and destruction, though everyone lived in fear and uncertainty. Unfortunately, even in our city, not everyone would make it through unscathed; as with every war, the minority was hassled, mistreated and worse. In the end, it was like all other wars – the innocent bystanders are the ones that were affected the most."

Ivetic recently finished third at the Maah Daah Hey (Badlands) Gravel Battle - a bike race that entails 120 miles and over 10,500 feet of elevation gain on the fast and rugged red scoria roads that crosshatch the badlands of western North Dakota.

"The race was very tough. Conditions for the Saturday pre-ride were perfect, as the gravel was dry and packed down, and I expected a very fast race. But then the rain started coming down Saturday afternoon and did not stop until sometime during the night. So the roads were turned into a sticky, soupy mess of gravel and mud. We had a strong headwind for the first half, which actually worked well as it dried the course and provided a good tailwind on the way back.

"I flatted 10 kilometres into the race and spent the second half battling a tire that continually lost air. I still managed to hold on to my rapidly shrinking lead though and rolled in on the rim to take third place."

This was Ivetic's second race of 2022, having warmed up with the Belgian Waffle Ride - a 225 km race in South

California. Next up for him is the Purgatory, which Country Cycle is putting on at the end of June.

"The fall months will be busy with the cyclocross season kicking off in early September. I will be travelling to British Columbia to race the RBC Whistler Gran Fondo on Sept. 10. I have yet to decide on whether to race the Canada CX Nationals as that will probably be a last-minute commitment depending on how I feel that late in the season."

Mud Hens unbeaten through three

The Morden Mud Hens are unbeaten through three games of the Border Baseball League season.

They maintained their unblemished record Friday with a 5-3 win over the Cartwright Twins.

Pitcher Branden Hatley struck out the side in the bottom of the seventh inning to close out the game. He went seven strong innings once again on the mound, striking out 11, although he did surrender his first runs of the season, but only two of which were earned.

The victory has them atop the east division early on, while the Winkler Whips are still just 1 & 0 after having their Friday game with Clearwater postponed.

The Altona Bisons meanwhile saw their record slip to 1 & 2 as they split a Saturday doubleheader with Saturday with Baldur. The Regals took game one 7-1 but the Bisons rebounded for a 10-0 shutout in game two.

Morden was scheduled to head to Winkler to take on the Whips Tuesday. The result was not available at press time.

Winkler is set to visit Pilot Mound this Friday, while Morden is hosting Baldur. Altona was to host Carman Tuesday with the result not available at press time, then the Bisons were to visit Cartwright Friday.

A decade of pickleball in Winkler

Voice staff

There's been 10 years of pickleball in Winkler, and local aficionados have extra reason to celebrate the milestone.

The spring has seen the courts at Lions Park updated with the addition of four pickleball nets which can be rolled out for pickleball and then rolled back for tennis.

It comes as the Winkler Senior Centre along with the Winkler recreation department and Winkler Pickleball Association mark 10 years of playing the game here, and there are some upcoming activities planned to help raise awareness of and participation in the game.

The partnership began a decade ago with the aim to provide recreational play for seniors, but it has expanded to other ages with even students being taught the game in school now.

This past year, over 80 people participated in regular organized pickleball indoors using facilities such as school gyms, and year round play is available now with the improved facilities at Lions Park.

The beauty of the game is that it can be played by all ages, and people will have a chance to try it out next week as part of a Winkler ParticipACTION Community Better Challenge event June 14 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the Lions Park courts. The equipment will be provided as well as some instruction, so just show up ready to play.

Family night pickleball is held every Tuesday from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Lions Park courts from July 5 to Aug. 24. If interested, you can register throughout June online at winkler.ca under community services and programs and events.

In addition, there will be drop-in recreational adult pickleball every Wednesday from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the Lions Park courts. Starting in September, pickleball will move back indoors for the winter.

Perfect week for Bisons

By Ty Dilello

The Altona Bisons picked up three wins over the last week to move into first place in the MJBL standings with a 4-1 record.

On Friday night, the Bisons were in Winnipeg, where they took down the St. Boniface Legionnaires 7-5 in extra innings.

"St. Boniface was a tough game, as they're a good young team, and the game went to extra innings," said Bisons' manager Curt Letkeman.

"Alex Krykewich pitched a great game for them, and fortunately, we were able to capitalize on a couple of key errors. Connor Cory struck out 13 for us in seven innings, while Maddux Mateychuk had a key hit in the 8th inning that drove in two runs."

The Bisons were also on the road Sunday to take on the Interlake Blue Jays in Stonewall for a doubleheader. Both games went the Bisons' way, as they blitzed the Blue Jays by 9-3 and 11-4 scores.

"Interlake is also a little young, and unfortunately for them, they don't have much for pitching. Ethan Giesbrecht pitched game one and also struck out 13, while Trent Peters homered and drove in three, and Keyan Grimard had three hits and two RBIs," said Letkeman.

"In the second game, their pitcher walked six guys in the first inning, and we built a 10-0 lead after three and a half innings. Dillan Thiessen and Trent Peters pitched that game for us."

The Bisons are at home this week with games Wednesday against the Carillon Sultans and a double header Sunday vs the Elmwood Giants.

"The guys are starting to get a bit more comfortable at the plate or in the field. Some of our players hadn't even picked up a bat prior to our first game and even now have only had 15 or so at-bats."

Meanwhile, the Pembina Valley Orioles are currently in second place in the MJBL standings with a 3-1 record.

They have home games this week Wednesday vs Winnipeg South, Friday vs Carillon Sultans and a double header Sunday vs Interlake.

Oakview opens up in Gretna

The Oakview Golf and Country Club just outside of Gretna is open for golfers this summer to come test it out.

By Ty Dilello

The Oakview Golf and Country Club just outside of Gretna is up and running for what it hopes will be a long summer.

The restaurant is also opening this week, and the club has a new patio open as well while currently building another one on the west side of the clubhouse.

"The course is in great shape," said course manager Delwyn Doerksen. "We're also in the process of finishing our hole nine tee box, which will look great."

This summer, memberships for adults are $491, while juniors are $125, and there is also a new member rate for anyone who was not previously a member in 2021 available for $309.

Doerksen is also a top local amateur golfer and has plans on competing a little bit this summer.

"The plan now is to play the Am and a few prairie scratch events, but we'll see how many I play. The goal would be to win the Am, and I think I have a pretty good shot this year. Hopefully my game can come around in time."

Storm fall to Hellas; 'Canes post first win

The Winkler Storm dropped a 1-0 decision to the visiting Hellas SC Sunday in their MMSL Premier Division home opener.

They're at 0-2 for the season thus far, but the Storm have home field advantage once again this weekend as they host Lucania FC Sunday at 6 p.m. at the 15th Street soccer pitch.

Meanwhile, the local ladies soccer team, the SC Hurricanes, got their first win of the summer last week, downing Frozen Water 2-0.

Selina Steiger scored both goals for the 'Canes, and with the win, the team's record improves to 1-4 in the Winnipeg Womens Soccer League's Second Division.

This week the 'Canes were scheduled to play at the Honey Badgers on Tuesday. Results were not available at press time.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Level: Intermediate

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Endless Summer Grass-Fed Lamb Burgers

2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon lemon zest
2 teaspoons olive oil

To make burgers: Gently divide lamb into four equal parts and shape into rounds slightly larger than buns. Cover and refrigerate at least 1 hour.

To make spread: In small bowl, mix yogurt, garlic, mayonnaise and mustard; refrigerate until ready to assemble burgers.

To make salad: In medium bowl, mix cucumber, onions, parsley, mint leaves, dill, micro greens, lemon juice, lemon zest and olive oil; refrigerate until ready to assemble burgers.

Preheat grill to medium-high heat, creating hot and cool zones. Salt patties then grill about 6 minutes on each side until internal temperature reaches 150 F. As patties near 150 F or start to brown, move to cool zone to regulate doneness. Transfer to plate and let rest about 5 minutes.

To assemble burgers, add dollop of spread to bottom buns. Top each with one tomato slice, one lamb burger, salad and top bun.

Prep time: 1 hour, 20 minutes

Cook time: 1 hour

Servings: 4

Burgers:

1 1/2 pounds Atkins Ranch grass-fed Ground Lamb

1/4 teaspoon kosher salt

4 brioche buns

1 medium tomato, sliced into rounds

Spread:

2/3 cup full-fat Greek yogurt

1 clove garlic, grated

1/3 cup mayonnaise

1 tablespoon Dijon mustard

Salad:

1 small English cucumber, thinly sliced

2 green onions, thinly sliced into rounds

2 tablespoons flat leaf parsley, chopped

2 tablespoons fresh mint leaves, chopped

1 tablespoon fresh dill, chopped

1/4 cup micro greens

Grass-Fed Lamb Meatball and Veggie Skewers with Herb Sauce

1 lemon, juice only
2 cloves garlic
1/4 cup extra-virgin olive oil
Italian bread, grilled

To make lamb meatballs: Soak wooden skewers in water 10 minutes. In large bowl, break apart ground lamb then add whisked eggs and breadcrumbs. In small saute pan, add olive oil and saute yellow onion and garlic with coriander seeds, red pepper flakes, salt and pepper, to taste, about 5 minutes until onion is translucent and spices are fragrant. Add to bowl with lamb. Mix until combined and form into roughly 1 1/2-ounce balls.

To make veggies: Cut onion and bell peppers into 1-inch stacks.

Add ground lamb meatballs to skewers, alternating with peppers and onions. Cover and refrigerate at least 1 hour.

To make herb sauce: In immersion blender, blend parsley, rosemary, capers, lemon juice, garlic and olive oil until smooth. Refrigerate until ready to serve.

Preheat grill to medium-high heat. Grill skewers about 3 minutes on each side, or until meatballs reach internal temperature of 150 F. Rest 5 minutes. Serve with dipping sauce and grilled Italian bread.

Prep time: 1 hour, 30 minutes

Cook time: 30 minutes

Yield: 6 skewers

Lamb Meatballs:

6 wooden skewers

1 pound Atkins Ranch grass-fed Ground Lamb

2 large eggs, whisked

2/3 cup Italian breadcrumbs

1 teaspoon olive oil

1/2 cup yellow onion, finely minced

1 clove garlic, minced

1/4 teaspoon coriander seeds, crushed

1/4 teaspoon red pepper flakes

1/2 teaspoon kosher salt

freshly ground black pepper, to taste

Veggies:

1 medium red onion

1 medium green bell pepper

1 medium red bell pepper

Herb Sauce:

1 cup flat leaf parsley leaves

2 teaspoons fresh rosemary leaves, minced

2 tablespoons capers

AsktheMoneyLady.ca

Dear Money Lady: One of my friends put all their retirement savings into an annuity and said we should too. What exactly is an Annuity? Janice Janice, I am often asked about annuities, so let's discuss this strategy that is often recommended as a way to create a lifelong income in retirement. Life annuities are designed for clients who have insufficient savings and/or a very low risk tolerance to investing in the market. There are four main types of annuities: straight life, joint life, term-certain and deferred. We will discuss each one plus some of the added features you can opt for.

Straight life annuities are the simplest. This annuity guarantees a periodic income for life with payments starting immediately minus a premium. Be careful with this one. This annuity does pay the highest amount for life, but when you die the payments stop and there is no payout to the estate. The benefit from this plan is if you live longer than your life expectancy, you will benefit from the funds left in the pool by those who died earlier. One thing I am not a fan of with this product is that the payments are fixed over time and do not compensate for inflation. Because of this you can add an income protection option called an increasing life annuity. The plan will then increase by a defined pre-set percentage each year. You can also choose an indexed annuity (often less expensive) that will increase the payments each year in line with inflation (measured only by the Canadian Consumer Price Index).

Joint life annuities last as long as either partner is alive. There are a couple of options with this one. You can buy an income-reducing annuity which is less costly, whereby the payment from the joint annuity declines when the first spouse dies. There is also an option in this plan to guarantee the payout of the premium if you choose a cash payment provision. When the annuitants die, the difference between the premium and the payout can then be paid to the beneficiaries.

Term-certain annuities are usually the one I prefer. In this annuity, payments are made for a specific period whether or not the annuitant dies. If you are using funds from your RRSP/RRIF in a term-certain annuity, payments usually only last until age 90. You can manipulate your term from 3 to 40 years and most are highly flexible. A cashable option is only available with this type of annuity since the convertible value can be easily calculated at any time. If needed, you could cash in your plan in the event of a serious medical condition or financial emergency.

The last type of annuity is called a deferred annuity and often purchased long before the income from the product is required in retirement. With this plan clients can take advantage of a slightly higher rate of interest by purchasing the annuity years earlier than actually required. You will be encouraged to pay a higher premium during the deferral period, allowing interest to accumulate in the product and therefore increasing the overall value at the agreed upon conversion date when it switches to a paying annuity. With this product, it is best to opt for a return of premium guarantee in the event that you die prematurely before the payments start. One thing to remember with this one: interest earned during the accumulation phase is taxable, so it is best to fund this product with your registered investments.

All annuities are insurance products and vary widely based on the provider. Some insurance companies offer variable pay annuities which can be linked in part to the return of a specified stock market index. These plans offer something for everyone. Clients can choose an index tailored to specific profiles, such as conservative, moderate, growth or aggressive. Depending on the insurance provider, you may even be able to choose a combination of indexes with variable payments. Basically, a person chooses an annuity product because they don't want to be concerned with the ups and downs of the stock market, and they want a "set-it and leave-it" strategy with a guaranteed monthly income for life. Now before you all run out to purchase an annuity, let me just go over some of the disadvantages. Most annuities cannot be cashed or altered after income payments have commenced. Payments often cannot be adjusted to reflect changing needs, and the funds cannot be accessed in an emergency. Remember, you are giving up ownership of your investments and control of your capital to the annuity. It cannot ever be used as a loan guarantee or reassigned. Annuities are great to help diversify a retirement portfolio, but it is always a good idea to use them with other investments that offer more flexibility, such as RRIFs and TFSAs.

Good Luck & Best Wishes,

Hello my name is Joyce owner/operator of HAIRS THE PLACE

This shop has been my dream that came true since 1993, it has been my great joy and pleasure to make you into the best version of yourself. Today I'm sharing an important piece of news in my life. Hairs the Place has officially been sold, and new management will be taking over.

I'd like to sincerely thank all our clients who have entered our doors over the last 28 years. We have laughed, cried, and recounted many stories. I've also been privileged and honoured to attend many weddings, baby showers and funerals for our loved ones. Many of you have become friends and confidants, and I will truly miss you all.

I also sincerely thank all the talented stylists who have worked at Hairs the place. We have had an inspiring and motivating group of women that have become lifelong friends. Women that truly care and aspire to make each client feel special and beautiful.

THANK YOU

Thanking the city of Winkler for the tremendous support I have received over the years. To mark this closing of a chapter of my life and celebrate the times we've shared, I'd like to invite all of you to come to the shop for cake, coffee, cheese balls and crackers on Friday June 17th from 10am -2pm. Love to see you all and share memories.

OBITUARY

John Julius Dyck
1940 - 2021

John Dyck passed away on Saturday, December 4, 2021, at age 81 surrounded by family.

John was born on April 29, 1940 on his family farm near Rosetown to Julius P. Dyck and Katherine (Hiebert) Dyck. He spent his school years in Rudneweide and Edward schools. John started working at a young age helping his Dad on the farm. He tried his hand at a variety of jobs in the workforce from working in construction, unloading train cars, delivering coal and Winkler poultry. John was a fast learner and a hard worker in everything that he did. On September 29, 1959 he married his lifelong companion, friend and soulmate, Elizabeth Enns (Betty). They were baptized in Winkler Berghthaler Mennonite Church and lifetime members. They bought their first home in Winkler on First Street. John continued to farm with his dad and started delivering milk from Winkler to Carman. As their family grew to three children, they moved to 7th Street where John purchased several trucks and hauled grain for local farmers. In 1968 the family moved to Greenfarm, a place they would call home for the next 25 years. Here they started a dairy farm, grew sugar beets and grain. John's true passion was horses, he was involved in 4H horse club, trail rides, and rodeos. His love of horses lead him to the world of harness horse racing where he bred, raced and trained his own. John always talked about his racing days as being some of his favourite adventures. John spent many years working with horses, from doing weddings, parades, log pulling, ploughing fields, to sleigh rides. Often working alongside his good friend Stan, this was truly his favourite job. In his retirement years, he cut hay in the summers for Bill Loepky. John enjoyed this as it brought back the feeling of life on the farm. He also enjoyed delivering motorhomes for Triple E with his shotgun rider by his side every trip was a new adventure, especially loved trips that brought him and Betty to the east coast. John loved to work hard and play harder. He loved sports, from playing to coaching. He enjoyed hockey, baseball, curling, and bowling. Watching his children and grandchildren do all of their activities was very important and he was very proud of everything they have accomplished. He may have complained about Kelly's trumpet and piano lessons but that didn't make him any less proud. The family wasn't always close to home or even in the same country, but John made it a priority to see all of his children and grandchildren whenever he could.

In addition to his parents, he was predeceased by one sister, one brother, two brothers-in-law and two nephews. He leaves to mourn his loving wife, Betty; their children, Jack (Valerie) Dyck, Kelly (John) Dyck, Larry (Catherine) Dyck; his grandchildren, Wyatt, Kaylee, Lindsay, James, Wayne, Brian, Kayla, Trevor, Riley; great-grandchild, Jackson; honorary children, Wayne, Robert, Roland, Frank, Rachelle, Chris S, Jeremy, Chris A, Nolan, Mark, Luke, Mike, Dennis, Mackenzie, Melinda, Fernando and Carolina as well as one brother, Peter (Tina) Dyck and family, one sister, Martha Hildebrand and family, numerous brothers-in-law, sisters-in-law, nieces, nephews, cousins and friends.

The family would like to express our deepest gratitude for all of the prayers, support, and encouragement we have received through this trying time. We find peace and comfort in knowing that Grandpa has gone to his heavenly home.

Memorial service will be held at 2:00 p.m. on Sunday, June 12, 2022 at the Miami Community Hall.

OBITUARY

John Walter Kuhl
1928 - 2022

It is with mixed blessings of sorrow and gratitude that we announce the passing of John W Kuhl, beloved father, grandfather, opa, brother, uncle and friend to many.

John was born on March 28, 1928 to Henry and Maria Kuhl. He was the youngest son in a family of seven children. John attended a private school in Gretna, Manitoba for the majority of his high school years, but for his grade 12 year he attended in Winkler, Manitoba. This is where he met the love of his life, Lillian Faith Kuhl (Warkentin). Following high school Lillian moved to Winnipeg to attend nursing school. When she completed this program of study, John and Lillian were married on September 17, 1949. Together John and Lillian raised six children: two boys and four girls. John was devoted to his family and encouraged all of his children to pursue post secondary education. His love of music progressed through the years from reel-to-reel tapes, turn table, CD player, to the most recent commonly heard hymns on YouTube played from his iPad. As a family we spent many Sunday afternoons gathered in the living room playing hymns and John and Lillian's favourite folk songs. The ensemble included two violins, cello, piano, clarinet, oboe and John with his accordion. Most Saturdays were busy with a trip to Winnipeg to juggle music lessons and rehearsals for children who were members of the Winnipeg Youth Orchestra.

John's father, Henry, was a farmer in the Gnadenthal area. After high school and a year away at University, John decided to join his father on the farm. After only a few years of working together, in 1950, John and his wife Lillian purchased the farm. This property that he was raised on, continues to be the main yard for current farm operations. John's love of the land was evident in the decisions that he made as a farmer. He quickly recognized that the care of animals was not his first love and moved the farm from a mixed farming operation to crops only. In the early years, he grew grains, corn and sugar beets. In 1960, John joined forces with his brother, Henry and brother-in-law, Dave Bueckert to form Southern Manitoba Potato Co. Together they became one of the largest producers of table and chipping potatoes in the province. John shared his love of the land with his son, Keith, who currently continues to operate the farm with his two sons, Marlon and Jeremy. John spent many years working with industry and church organizations including, Peak of the Market, Canadian Horticultural Council, Winkler Mennonite Brethren Church to list a few. John was currently a member at Covenant Mennonite Church Winkler and as one of the oldest members, he was loved by all.

During the past five months while he was palliative, John was cared for by an amazing group of care givers. The family would like to thank all those who spent time with and cared for John. Special thanks to his granddaughter, Leala Kuhl who organized the team of care givers.

John was preceded in death by his wife, Lillian; son, Douglas; daughter, Juliana; and grandsons, Chad and Tyler. He loved to spend time with family and is lovingly remembered by his four remaining children, their spouses, 10 grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren. He is survived by his youngest sister, Evelyn Dyck.

A Celebration of Life was held at 11:00 a.m. on Thursday, June 2, 2022 at Emmanuel Mennonite Church with interment prior at the Winkler Cemetery.

If friends so desire, the family invites donations to MEDA (Mennonite Economic Development Associates)
