Altona road renewal project nears completion

By Lori Penner

Residents and visitors driving through Altona have been enjoying a much smoother ride this summer as the town-wide road renewal project nears completion.

Maple Leaf Construction was awarded the million-dollar contract for the project that was prioritized in the town's 2024 budget. Their crews have been plugging away at locations throughout the community since July 2.

Altona Mayor Harv Schroeder says the project became possible through last year's basket funding.

"It was a one-time increase, so we decided to put that money towards much-needed upgrading and renewal of the streets in town."

Initially they thought they'd be looking at four or five priority points. But after Maple Leaf evaluated the streets, the list began to grow.

According to Schroeder, about 4,000 linear metres on 26 local roads were pegged as requiring some mill and fill work.

"Some of those streets needed curve and gutter repair and the concrete swales really needed to be fixed before we could start the mill and fill, so the crews spent the first two weeks doing that. The third week, they started milling, and the fourth week, they started applying asphalt."

Public works manager Clint Derksen says the finished product is expected to last 20 years.

"Most of the work was done with water flow in mind. Some of the tough spots needed adjustments on height for water, so it's not just sitting there. Altona is notoriously flat, so they faced some challenges with directing water, but I think we've worked around all of them. In some cases, slope was added over the original design of the road, so we're expecting a long life out of these roads."

He adds, "The majority of the work is done. Now it's mostly patching and smoothing, for instance at the end of driveways where the road ended up being a little higher. They'll smooth that transition out so it still directs water properly. There were other areas that needed patching as well, from various water and sewer patches over the years. This wasn't part of the original project, but while the crews are here, they'll be filling those spots as well."

Derksen adds that many local businesses also took advantage of the situation, patching up parking lots and walkways.

A few of the final projects included resurfacing on 4th Street SW where motorists have spent a few years navigating potholes and other eroded sections of the street where rainwater tends to collect, as well as repairs and asphalt resurfacing along the loop at the Altona Centennial Park.

"It's been a long time since we've done a huge project like this, and it's just great to see the finished result. Just drive down Centre Ave. and look north and south and you can see most of the work that's been done," adds Schroeder.

"We've really appreciated the community's patience and cooperation during the repair work as streets were frequently closed and traffic was safely redirected. I also want to thank Maple Leaf Construction for their speed and efficiency. They've done a great job in town here, and the quality of work looks really good."

Morris Curling Club installs new ice

By Siobhan Maas

Many curlers from across the province are welcoming the brand new ice at the Morris Curling Club this month.

Removed in early July for maintenance purposes, the fresh ice was opened to the public on Aug. 6.

"The ice had been in for six years in a row," explained Gabe Brandt, curling club manager. "Putting in completely new ice keeps the ice healthy, allowing for better curling conditions."

Ice supervisor Scott Churchill is happy with the fresh sheets.

"We have more room to flood the ice now. The ice will be watered every five weeks to keep the ice healthy. Any impurities that rise to the surface with flooding will be scraped off."

Access to curling ice in the summer can be challenging for competitive curlers.

Falk Fehr Fdn. donates $70K to three local charities

By Ashleigh Viveiros

The Falk Fehr Foundation's annual Hockey Champions Charity Golf Tournament was a big hit this June, and last week three local non-profits benefited from that success.

On Friday, the foundation presented the Winkler & District Food Cupboard, South Central Cancer Resource (SCCR), and Big Brothers Big Sisters of the Pembina Valley with $70,000 raised at the event. SCCR and Big Brothers both received $20,000, while the food bank got $30,000.

"We've had some great years the last couple of years and this is another one where all the support came together at just the right time and we were able to have another great event," said Eric Fehr, who heads up the foundation alongside fellow retired hometown pro hockey player Justin Falk.

The foundation was created with the sole intent of making a difference in the community, Fehr said, and they're always humbled when the community in turn shows up to support that mission. The 2024 tournament, held at the Winkler Centennial Golf Course, had 165 golfers this year.

"There are a lot of people that keep giving year after year," Fehr said. "We're super thankful that they can enjoy the day and also give money to these great causes.

"It's extremely difficult every year to choose which charities we give the money to," he added, noting there's certainly no shortage of worthy causes. "We're trying to spread it around the community, and these are the charities that we thought were in need of some money this time."

SCCR board member Freda Lumgair says these funds will go a long way in their mission to aid families dealing with cancer.

“It’s huge for us. We will be able to support cancer patients with travel into the city for testing, radiation therapy—somebody that is going through radiation therapy, they go Monday to Friday, often for a month or more.”

SCCR’s transportation program provides patients with rides and financial support to help offset the costs that come with frequent trips into the city for treatment.

The agency also supports families who are struggling with income loss due to a cancer diagnosis.

“When we have people that are at the point where maybe the wife is sick, the husband has to take time off work to help look after her and quite possibly the kids ... so now there’s not as much income, if any, coming in, and they still need groceries and they need to get into Winnipeg for treatments.

“When things are tight, they can come and talk to our office staff and, based on need, we have gift cards that we give out to help.”

SCCR also offers skin screening clinics, radon awareness and testing, wigs and head coverings, a lymphedema program, accommodation assistance, and other wellness programs.

They’re only able to do all this with community support, Lumgair stressed.

“We’re not government funded. We’re all funded by donations,” she said, thanking the Falk Fehr Foundation for including them among the recipients this year. “Their support is just fabulous and we greatly appreciate it.”

Jenelle Neufeld, executive director of Big Brothers Big Sisters of the Pembina Valley, says the $20,000 they received from the foundation is a huge support for their various one-on-one and group mentoring programs.

“Something like this is absolutely incredible to us because we are a smaller organization and I think that it is easy to kind of feel like you’re getting lost in the shuffle, but having the Falk Fehr Foundation believe in what we’re doing and choose us for something like this is absolutely amazing.”

The agency currently has six active traditional mentoring matches—teaming up adult volunteers with youth in the community—but as the new school year gets underway Neufeld hopes to see significant growth in their in-school mentoring program, in which teens are teamed up with younger students.

They’ll also be launching several group programs in the months ahead designed to foster self-esteem and promote good decision making in youth.

Meanwhile, the $30,000 the Winkler and District Food Cupboard received will help them stock their shelves for the next couple of months, allowing them to assist hundreds of people experiencing food insecurity.

But the donation represents more than just monetary support, reflected Milt Olfert, chair of the food cupboard’s board of directors.

“What it means to me is that the community cares about each other,” he said. “It’s not so much about raising a lot of money—it’s about raising money for people that need it.

“When an organization like this goes and raises money for Big Brothers or cancer resource or people with food insecurity, it means they care about the people around them. They care for whether people are having a hard time in their lives, and that’s huge.

“To me it’s not so much about the money—the money is great, but it’s the caring that is behind it for the community, reaching out and helping those that are in hard times.”

Corn & Apple weekend is here

By Lorne Stelmach

All is set for the 2024 Morden Corn and Apple Festival, and organizers are confident it will be a big weekend for the city.

"It was almost coming up way too quickly. It wasn't too long ago it seemed like we had so much time," said festival chairperson Nathan Knight ahead of the Aug. 23-25 community celebration.

"Everything has fallen into place ... we're making it happen," he said. "Most of our key people have stuck around for us this year as far as volunteers ... we do have a new executive director, but she has been fitting into the role quite nicely. Obviously, it's quite a learning curve.

"There's so many moving parts ... and when you have a street festival like this, it can be one of the biggest charms," he said.

The festival has so much going for it, suggested Knight, citing the sheer amount of options of things to enjoy.

There are activities for people of all ages—everything from the petting zoo and reptile area for the kids to the Wonder Shows midway to the favourite old-time music at the Cottonwood stage

He believes another main appeal for people is the weekend doesn't have to cost you a lot of money.

"You can come here first of all for very little money ... we do want you though to come spend money, of course, because we have amazing food vendors. I believe we have more food vendors than any other festival in Manitoba.

"It's definitely worth the drive," said Knight, who added he believes their new approach to the main stage entertainment as well is a major draw.

"We made the decision a couple years ago to focus on specific demographics as to who we were going after with our entertainment and not so much focusing on the genre of music, and that seems to have worked well for us."

The '90s rock headline evening Saturday will feature The Watchmen and 54-40 as well as local band Sun Sets West, while Friday will feature a Supertramp and Pink Floyd cover band called Album Sides as well as That 80s Band.

And, of course, the Saturday morning parade again promises to be perhaps the largest in the province.

"I believe entries are very much on par this year with what we had last year," Knight shared. "A lot of the things that we do for the festival are either one of the largest or the largest in the region, so a lot goes into all of it."

In addition, there is not only the Cottonwood dance stage but also the youth stage at the Kenmor Theatre. Aside from all of the other regular features, perhaps most notably the free corn on the cob and apple cider, there are further events that are a draw, such as the car show in the park on Sunday and car racing at Dead

Horse Speedway.

"We do try to have a variety for absolutely everybody," Knight said. "There should be something there for everybody."

He noted being a street festival is a challenge for them in some ways.

"It also limits how far or how fast you can grow," he said, noting as well that any empty street spaces might not be from a lack of interest.

"The power requirement for things like food trucks just gets greater and greater ... so we're not limited by interest. We're actually limited by the infrastructure so that we can properly serve all our vendors.

"We're trying to actively search out vendors who maybe don't require a lot of power," Knight noted. "And our craft tents are always overflowing. We always have a waiting list ... so I think some of this individuals might opt for full spots on the street."

Finally, Knight said they are always happy to see more people get involved in some way to help out at the festival.

"There's always a need for more volunteers ... it doesn't have to be in too large of a capacity. You can work a two hour shift helping out on the weekend if you want."

You can find more information about the festival's complete schedule online at www.cornandapple.com.

Province to restrict cell phone use in schools

By Ashleigh Viveiros

The Manitoba government is banning cellphones from K-8 schools this fall and putting limits on their use in high schools as well.

Education and Early Childhood Learning Minister Nello Altomare announced the ban last week.

"We want young people to be able to focus in class so they can learn more and feel confident. We know cellphones can be a real distraction for students—studies show it can take up to 20 minutes for a child to refocus on what they were learning once distracted," Altomare said in a news release Thursday. "These provincial guidelines will give teachers the tools they need to keep students focused and ensure class time is spent on learning. Plus, we will take safety and medical concerns into account so all risks are minimized."

School divisions will be tasked with implementing updated policies to ensure consistency across the province, the minister said.

Those policies include banning cellphone use during school hours, including lunch and breaks, for students in Kindergarten to Grade 8; banning cellphone use for students in Gr. 9-12 during class time, with cellphone use permitted during breaks and lunch; and clear direction for cellphone use in classrooms for school staff.

Eden Fdn. welcomes new director of development

By Ashleigh Viveiros

Eden Health Care Services has a new face at the helm of its fundraising efforts.

Eden Foundation announced last week that Dave Sawatsky has stepped into the director of development role, taking over from the departing Jayme Giesbrecht.

"Sawatsky brings broad leadership, strategy, governance, project/event management, and communications experience to the role from his years in the insurance industry and has demonstrated abilities in working collaboratively to implement new programs and processes at work and in his church," the foundation board shared in a release.

The director of development position oversees all aspects of the foundation's fundraising efforts, including donor relations, major gifts, planned giving, and events. Funds raised go to support Eden's mental health programming across southern Manitoba.

Foundation board chair Barry Dyck said they are "delighted by Dave's enthusiasm to be a part of the Eden team, pursuing Eden's mission through all its programs."

Eden CEO Brad Unger emphasized the vital importance of the foundation to the agency.

"It's such a link and a connector between the community and the support from the community, the business community, the church and faith groups, and the general public, and it provides a real critical link both in terms of communication and storytelling and sharing what the work of Eden is.

"And then of course it's the channel through which we receive a lot of financial and in-kind support from the community. That financial support is really vital to so many of our programs ... we wouldn't be able to do the work we do and to the extent we do without the work of the foundation.

"We're really excited that Dave's joined the team," Unger said. "He has a real wealth of experience in leadership and doing some strategic thinking and planning ... we're going to need to tap into that, because we have a lot of plans and ambitions about our future."

Sawatsky started in the role last week. He will work out of Eden's offices in Winnipeg, Winkler, and Steinbach.

"There's a couple things that drew me to the role," Sawatsky shared on Friday. "One was that I was looking for the kind of involvement and the kind of organization that I could feel was really making a difference in the world, changing the world in a small way."

He cited Eden's leadership team as another big draw.

"I think they're in really good shape in terms of a vision of moving forward. I wanted to be part of that kind of progressive movement," Sawatsky said. "People really have an ownership and knowledge and awareness and visibility for Eden that I think is hard to achieve ... but they've been able to do that for years."

Sawatsky, who lives in Winnipeg but grew up in the Altona area, says among his first tasks in the weeks ahead is to reach out and build up his connections in the community.

"I have lots more connections to make," he said, noting his people and project management skills will certainly be put to good use in this new role. "I'm new to the world of development and the specifics of fundraising, but I'm really excited to learn."

Odd Job Squad holds final freezie sale

Casey Peters and Rachel Braun were on hand with co-ordinator Anna Nikkel last Friday in Morden as the regional office of the Manitoba Youth Job Centres held its final freezie sale of the season. It supported the Odd Job Squad, which gave teens age 13 to 16 casual supervised first work and volunteer experiences in the community. The centre provides community-based summer youth employment and skills training throughout rural and northern Manitoba for students and youth from ages 13 to 29.

Plum Coulee was alive with Plum Fest activities over the weekend, including, clockwise from left, multiple fundraising community meals, main stage performances from artists such as The Dueling Pianos, line and Old Time Dancing under the tent by the elevator museum, and kid's activities including inflatables, a petting zoo, and a bike decorating contest.

> CELL PHONE BAN, FROM PG. 5

There will also be guidelines to include exceptions to support students with medical and diverse learning needs, as well as cellphone use for educational purposes in high school classes when directed by teachers, the province says.

Dan Ward, superintendent of the Garden Valley School Division in Winkler, says most schools and divisions across the province already have cell phone use policies in place, but this move by the province will help ensure everyone is on the same page.

"Certainly all of our schools have cell phone policies, and we have a divisional policy as well," he said. "What this directive does is it provides some common language across the province for all school divisions and districts."

GVSD's current policy prohibits students from using cell phones and other personal electronic devices during the regular school day, unless otherwise authorized by the principal.

"So most of our K-8 schools already had a very similar prohibition on the use of cell phones throughout the school day, unless it was for a specific educational purpose," Ward said.

Similarly, the provincial edict lines up with what is already happening at the high school level as well.

"Largely in our two high schools, students have had access to their phones during breaks and lunch, and sometimes for educational purposes," Ward said.

"I think what this policy does is it re-centers the conversation on the responsible use of technology," he said. "Technology is not going away. It's a big part of our lives. It's going to be part of our students' work lives as they enter the workforce after their schooling is done.

"I think the emphasis is on trying to eliminate as much as possible distractions in those formative years of K-8. And in high school, really promoting the responsible use of technology and personal devices.

"This direction [from the province] will require us to look back at our policies. It won't require a whole lot of significant changes, but we'll definitely thread in some of the provincial language and guidance to our existing policy and bring it to the board for final ratification in the fall."

Morris duo charged with theft

By Voice staff

A Morris man and woman are facing charges in connection to several stolen vehicles that were found by police earlier this month.

On Aug. 12, Morris RCMP received a report of a stolen truck, trailer, and off-road-vehicle (ORV) at a property on McMillan Ave. in Morris.

Officers attended and found a stolen pickup truck and utility trailer on the property. While police were on the scene, two suspects arrived driving an ORV that was also confirmed to be stolen.

The pair were arrested and the male driver was found to be in possession of 46 grams of suspected methamphetamine and other drug paraphernalia.

The 39-year-old has been charged with possession for the purpose of trafficking, three counts of possession of property obtained by crime, operation while prohibited, theft, and two counts of failing to comply.

The 40-year-old female suspect is facing charges of assault (from a previous incident) and two counts of possession of stolen property.

BASF BBQ celebrates St. Jean FD's $25K win

By Siobhan Maas

A community celebration took place in St. Jean Baptiste last Friday to honour the St. Jean Fire Department's $25,000 BASF grant win announced in the spring.

BASF Canada Agricultural Solutions sponsored a celebration BBQ for the community with food, music, and fun in honour of the funds won through their Growing Home competition.

Local farmer Gilbert Sabourin nominated the department, highlighting its need for replacement of 10 self-contained breathing apparatuses (SCBA).

The competition received 600 nominations, which were narrowed down to three finalists each for Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Ontario.

The public was invited to vote for the winner. Manitobans cast 14,000 votes, and St. Jean won it by 1,500.

"We received an overwhelming community response," said Deputy Fire Chief Brunel Sabourin during the award presentation portion of the evening last week. "As a community of our size, we punched above our weight. It is always amazing to see the community come out and support local organizations."

Brent Collins, head of seeds and traits with BASF Canada, presented the department their $25,000 cheque.

"BASF is incredibly proud to be a part of the Growing Home program. We know the impact this grant has on the community," he said, noting the need to replace the SCBA devices es "was the most convincing [cause] among the Manitoba finalists."

Collins stressed the importance of local volunteers, especially those who make their community a safe place.

"Volunteers make a small community work. Support for this community is outstanding."

Each new breathing apparatus and the necessary equipment comes with a hefty price tag. Gear, including mask, breathing tank, and backpack, for one fire fighter costs approximately $10,000.

"With further monetary donations from Miller Environmental, Valley Co-op, Knights of Columbus St. Jean, and several private donations we have met our fundraising goal [to purchase 10 SCBA]," shared Sabourin.

The new equipment is now on-site and the St. Jean volunteer firefighters will start training with them soon.

Approximately 200 community members attended the BBQ last week, along with firefighters from St. Jean and other area jurisdictions.

A pork-on-a-bun meal was enjoyed and live music provided by Almost Famous. Children got to play on several bouncy castles, and 13+ attendees got the chance to try their hand at axe throwing. The Club Chez Nous raised an additional $1015.20 for the fire department with the sale of ice cream sandwiches. The evening wrapped up with fireworks took place at dusk.

"Some of the best curlers in the world have practiced here," Brandt said. "We are the only club in Manitoba with summer ice and one of a handful of clubs across the country. I've heard of teams needing to train in Kelowna during the summer."

It is important for competitive athletes to maintain their skills and, if needed, use the state-of-the-art laser technology found at the Morris Curling Club's Cargill Curling Training Centre.

The club has been quite busy since re-opening. Two bonspiels take place the last two weekends of August, with teams coming from Wisconsin, Saskatchewan, Alberta, and Minnesota.

"Eleven practices were booked one day last week," shared Brandt. "These are teams curling out of Manitoba that we usually see on TV."

A week-long summer camp was also hosted last week, allowing local youth to hone their curling skills.

Chloé Pickell, 13, helped teach the younger curlers this year. She has curled for the past five years with the curling club's junior curling team, attending several youth bonspiels last year.

"I like to curl and hope to get to the Scotties one day," she said with a smile.

A summer fun league composed of local enthusiasts has already started playing during the day. Formal programming will begin in early October with several leagues available: Monday nights is the open division, Tuesdays is for the junior crowd, Wednesday is stick curling, and Thursday is the rec. league.

"The stick league is popular with anyone: those new to curling, curlers with safety concerns, mobility issues, or bad knees," explained Brandt. "There is no need to understand how to curl the rock."

The recreation league is provided during the day, usually attracting an older crowd, and is available on a drop-in basis.

Anyone interested in curling on a league or bringing a school class out as an alternative to gym class can contact Brandt at 204-746-2271 or manager@morriscurlingclub.com.

Altona Bisons knock out Winkler Whips

East Div. champs now move on to face Twins for league title

By Ashleigh Viveiros

The Altona Bisons knocked out the Winkler Whips and now square off against the Cartwright Twins for the Border Baseball League title.

The Bisons-Whips series was a drawn-out affair plagued by delays late last week, but it all finally came to a head Sunday in Winkler.

The Whips had extended the series—which became a race to six points thanks to a tie in game two after the match had to be called due to darkness—by winning their do-or-die game five 7-4 last Tuesday.

Game six was slated to be played

The Whips managed to extend the series with a 7-4 win in game five last Tuesday night in Altona (above), but it was the Bisons who came out ahead in game six 5-0 win the East Division title. They now face Cartwright in the Border Baseball League championship final.

Wednesday and then Thursday, but rain interfered both times, and then Friday's rescheduled game got bumped to Sunday due to a lack of available umpires.

The extended rest worked out well for the Bisons, who won it 5-0 to take the series seven points to five, win the East Division title, and earn a seat at the championship table with the Twins.

Cartwright had won their semi-final series against the Pilot Mound Pilots in four games to earn the West Division title and advance.

On Monday, the Twins took game one of the championship series 4-0, playing in front of a home town crowd.

A schedule for the remaining games was not available at press time.

Flyers bid farewell to Falk as head coach, GM

By Ashleigh Viveiros

After three seasons and the team's first championship win in 26 years, Winkler Flyers head coach and general manager Justin Falk is moving on from the role this fall.

The junior hockey team announced over the weekend that Falk has resigned to pursue a position at the professional level.

"Justin has played such a critical role in the success of this organization both on and off the ice since he joined us for the 2021-22 season," said team president Caleb Suderman. "The on-ice results speak for themselves, but it's the amount of time, effort and care behind the scenes and what he put into this community that are crucial to making junior hockey in Winkler possible.

"We wish him nothing but the best as he moves on and look forward to watching his career progress over the years."

For his part, Falk sent thanks out to everyone he's worked with over the past three years, as well as to the community and fans who support junior hockey in Winkler.

"Thank you to the community and board of directors for the opportunity to coach and general manage in our home town," he said. "Within the last three seasons have come many incredible experiences for myself and family and we are forever grateful for the continued relationships that have been built and will carry forward in Winkler."

Current assistant general manager and coach Coltyn Bates steps into Falk's old role on an interim basis as the club sets out to hire a permanent replacement.

The team has its first exhibition pre-season game Sept. 6 against Steinbach. The MJHL regular season starts Sept. 20.

Winkler heads into the 2024-2025 campaign as the defending champions, having won their first Turnbull Cup since 1998 this spring.

Storm teams near end of season

By Ashleigh Viveiros

The Winkler Storm 1 downed the visiting Grant Park SC 4-1 Sunday night.

Phillip Unrau led the home team in scoring with two goals, bolstered by singles from Cornie Siemens and Janick Richter.

The win follows up on the 4-1 defeat the Storm suffered at the hands of AK Academy in Winnipeg a few days earlier.

With that, at press time the team retained its hold on first place in the Manitoba Major Soccer League's Division one with a record of 10-2-2 and 32 points, three up on second-place Winnipeg FC and four ahead of Galacticos FC in third place.

Winkler Storm 2, meanwhile, didn't have such a good week, falling to Lucania United FC2 4-2 last Tuesday. Scoring for Winkler was Ehtha H.

Moon and Janick Richter.

Monday night the team was slated to play the last-place Richmond Kings, but the Kings forfeited.

It bolsters the team's record to 3-11-2, good for 11 points and second-last place in the eight-team Division 2.

Coming up, Storm 1 host the Hannover Kickers this Sunday at 7 p.m. while Storm 2 faces the Scorpions on the road next Monday night.

A day at the races

The Moto Park X track in Altona hosted last weekend's Grassroots Motocross races, pitting competitors from across the province against one another in over two dozen event classes. The season continues with races in Grunthal this Saturday and Sunday and in Pilot Mound Sept. 14-15.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Level: Intermediate

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

OBITUARY

John Neufeld

Johan (John) Dyck Neufeld, beloved husband, father, and friend, passed away on Saturday, August 3, 2024, in the RM of Roland, MB, at the age of 49. He entered into the presence of his loving Heavenly Father, leaving behind a legacy of kindness and faith.

Born on September 4, 1974 in Greenfield, Mexico, Campo 109, John's early years were spent in Mexico before his family relocated to Manitoba. John and his family later lived briefly in Alberta and Ontario before settling permanently in Manitoba.

John was preceded in death by his father, Jacob Neufeld; his sister, Tina; his niece, Chelsea; his nephews, Matthew and Jonathan; and his mother-in-law, Anna Harder.

He is lovingly remembered by his wife, Tina (Harder) Neufeld; his children, Victoria (Riley), Michael (Claudette), Bradley (Lena), Joshua, Adam, Tamara, and Solara; and his cherished grandchildren, Ashton, Paisley, Oliver, Ezekiel, and baby Neufeld. He is also survived by his mother, Katharina, and his siblings, Nancy (Jake), Cristina (John), Isaack (Nettie), Jake (Tina), Helen (Bill), Pete (Heather), and their families.

John and Tina's love story began in 1989. He was baptized in 1994 in the Reinland Mennonite Church. They were married the following year and were looking forward to celebrating their 29th wedding anniversary this September. John began working at Meridian in 1994, starting as a painter and quickly advancing to the role of team manager. His dedication, leadership, and warm smile earned him respect and admiration in every aspect of his life—whether at work, in church, or within the community.

John was known for his joyful spirit, always spreading his love for Jesus, people, and life itself. He had a gift for making others feel special, and he never hesitated to offer a kind word, a helping hand, or a heartfelt laugh. He was passionate about cooking, baking, spending time with family, traveling, and trying new things.

In the last three years of his life, John discovered a new passion—motorcycle riding. After obtaining his learner's permit in August 2021, he enjoyed many adventures with his riding buddies. In addition to riding, John took pride in dressing well, singing in the choir, and helping his children plan memorable events.

If you have cherished memories, stories, or photos of John, we warmly invite you to share them with us. Your contributions will help celebrate his life and keep his spirit alive in our hearts. Every memory is a treasured gift, and we deeply appreciate your willingness to share.

https://form.jotform.com/242211437179050

His celebration of life was held on Wednesday, August 14, 2024 at 2 p.m. at the Winkler Bergthaler Mennonite Church. A public viewing was held at the Winkler Wiebe Funeral Chapel on Tuesday, August 13, 2024, from 1 p.m. – 6 p.m.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to Wiebe's Funeral Home to support other families facing unexpected funeral costs.

OBITUARY

Elmer Howard Evenson

Elmer Howard Evenson, affectionately known as "Papa" to his grandchildren, passed away suddenly in the early hours of Thursday, August 8, 2024, at the age of 87.

Elmer first lived on a farm just west of Haskett, and later south of Lake Minnewasta. When Elmer was just 14, his father passed away, and he left school early to help his mother and his sister on the farm.

Elmer became a skilled farmer, raising both beef and grains. In the late 1950s, Elmer met Catherine Muriel Vick, and they married in 1961. Together, they created a loving home for their children, Scott and Debora, on the property they called "Ironwood Farm," named for the Ironwood trees growing near the lake.

Elmer's ingenuity was evident in the many projects he undertook, from building a treehouse complete with electric lights and a television to crafting a motorized go-kart and a rocket ship made from oil drums. The garden tractor he built was featured on the cover of the Welding Magazine.

A devoted father, Elmer was known for his patience and support, with his family. He and Catherine were actively involved in the Scouting movement. They were involved in the local theatre organization – "The Company" with Elmer contributing his skills to being the stage manager, building sets, and operating the lighting and sound boards for the amateur productions. He was an avid dancer and enjoyed entertaining at personal care homes across southern Manitoba with Friends of Dance.

His long-time membership at St. Thomas Anglican Church found him teaching Sunday School, singing in the choir, serving as a Lay Reader and on Vestry as both Peoples' and Rector's Wardens.

Elmer and Catherine sold their farm in 2016 and moved to a condo in Morden. In the fall of 2023, Elmer moved to Tabor Home where he spent his final days.

Elmer was predeceased by his parents, Clarence and Martha (nee Link), his sister Dorothy, his brother-in-law Elmer, his parents-in-law Walford and Jean Vick and numerous other relatives.

He is survived by his wife of almost 63 years, Catherine; his son Scott (Carrie); his daughter Debora; grandsons Dakota, Dallas, and Tyler and great-grandson Benji, his granddaughter Kayla; his sister-and brother-in-law Barbara and Don Rothenberger and nephew Philip as well as many cousins.

Thanks are extended to members of St. Thomas Anglican Church for their support and prayers and to the staff and residents of Cedar House, Tabor Home for their friendship and care during the past year.

If friends so desire, donations may be made in Elmer's memory to Alzheimer's Society or South Central Cancer Resource.

Funeral service was held on August 17, 2024 at 2 p.m. and the burial was held prior at the Lakeside Cemetery, Morden.

Pool party wraps up summer reading program

By Lori Penner

The South Central Regional Library Altona branch hosted a pool party at the Altona Aquatic Centre Aug. 14 to celebrate another successful summer reading program.

About 100 children and teens attended the free event, which was sponsored by the Altona Elks. There were door prizes and lots of smiles as the group enjoyed a fun-filled hour at the pool.

This year's theme for the Bookland Explorers Summer Reading Club was Under the Sea. Branch administrator Rachael Friesen explained that participants were divided into two teams, with either a jellyfish or an octopus as their mascot.

"The teams competed against each other for the most minutes. And they also logged their minutes for a chance to buy prizes or win a grand prize. There were also daily activities."

Participants followed a map, with the goal to get their mascots to 2,000 hours of reading. In the end, Team Jellyfish won with 2,150 hours, though Team Octopus was not far behind, posting 2,040. This year's program culminated in grand prize draws at the branch on Aug. 17.

"The main idea is to get everybody to continue reading over the summer," Friesen said. "This year we also did a teen program across all five branches. Across the region, we had 181 teens participate, which was amazing."

There were a total of 181 participants of all ages at the Altona Branch alone this year, including 40 teens.

Cameron Toews was this summer's coordinator for the program.

"I absolutely loved it. It was a really exciting summer, and we had great participation. I loved doing crafts and activities with everyone. It was very busy, but just so fun. Everyone loved the Under the Sea theme, and I was happy to see such a big number of teens involved as well. It was fantastic, and I'd love to be involved again next year."

The second annual Altona Gospel Music Festival filled Altona Centennial Park with music Saturday afternoon and evening. Hundreds of gospel music lovers packed in to hear bands like the Quonset Brothers, Old Friends, the Martens Brothers, Glorybound Quartet, the Peters Family, the Glen Cross Quartet, and the Martin Elias Family. There were also food vendors on hand to serve up lunch and supper. Donations collected all went to Youth for Christ Altona.

Legends charity drag races a success

By Lori Penner

Another Legends Car Club Charity Airport Drag race is in the books, and organizers are thrilled with the turnout.

Alex Loewen, co-chair for the races and Legends Car Club president, says while the numbers haven't been crunched yet, based on overall attendance last weekend, he's certain they did well in fundraising for their three chosen charities: Genesis House, South Central Cancer Resource and STARS Air Ambulance.

"Crowds were good, racers were happy, both days ran smoothly, with only a few small delays, but otherwise everybody left happy."

About 53 racers competed each day, and the stands were full.

"Crowds on Sunday were even bigger than Saturday this year, and our reader boards were back and up and running, so that improved the spectator experience."

Other charitable organizations who benefitted from the weekend are also pleased. Loewen says The Community Exchange was busy at the cold shack, and Sixteen13 Ministries did a smooth job with parking and managing the crowds. The Bunker's food truck, Industrial Eats, had two long lines all day, both days.

Chris Hildebrand and Emilia Kehler ran The Bunker truck.

"We sold 750 burgers, 817 orders of fries and 243 hot dogs over the weekend, which is amazing," Kehler says.

Hildebrand adds, "No other food truck that I'm aware of can push out meals as fast as we can, with the quality that we can, so it's something that we really take a lot of pride in. It's one way of building self sufficiency for the nonprofit, and to provide job opportunities and work and life coaching for the youth and young adults that need a bit of guidance."

While the weekend offered a lot of thrills for the crowd, it also provided valuable experience for the racers, and Kennedy Letkeman is one of them.

At eight years old, in her junior dragster, she was the youngest bracket racer on the track. She received the dragster as a Christmas present from her grandfather, Rod Fehr, who is an experienced competitor himself, and has not missed a single Legends race.

Racing is a family tradition, Fehr says.

"I found a guy close to the Saskatchewan border who had three for sale, so I bought them. A friend of mine drives one. My oldest granddaughter drives one, but she decided to wait to race next year. We have a long history with Legends, and it's always a great experience."

Fehr adds, "We're really proud of Over 50 racers came out last weekend to take part in the Legends Car Club's annual charity drag races at the Altona airport. Among them was eight-year-old Kennedy Letkeman (right) who was the youngest bracket racer on the track in her junior dragster. It was her first time racing and she says she had a blast.

Kennedy. She did so well, considering she only played around with it at the farm. Her mom still has a license and may get back into it next year. I guess after three generations, the legacy continues."

"This was my first time racing," Kennedy says. "It was so much fun. It feels really cool to go straight against the wind, and your hair just goes whoosh."

"She's been running very consistently, with an almost perfect reaction time," says her mom, Stephanie Letkeman, who has also competed in a number of races.

Letkeman explains how in bracket racing, it's not about beating someone else's speed, but whoever comes the closest to their estimated time.

"She was the only one in her bracket, so she's been getting good experience, and it was a really fun day. I'm unbelievably proud of her."

In terms of safety, Stephanie says, "As a mom, you always want your kid to be as safe as possible. But realistically, it's more dangerous to ride your bike around the neighborhood, than to be in this. They have really good roll bars, and she's fully kitted out with equipment to keep her safe. I don't think they could make it any safer if they tried at this point."

Kennedy's friends are impressed with her new hobby. On one of the last days of school this year, her mom and grandfather brought a few of their dragsters to school to give the students a chance to see the equipment and sit inside one of the cars.

"They think it's really cool," Kennedy says. "They had never sat in a race car before."

While the racing season is nearly over, her dragster won't sit still for long.

"We might try to get her into Gimli, to get her fully licensed," Stephanie says.
